

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is a private corporation, managed and controlled by a Board of Trustees, chosen from its members.

It was founded in the beginning of the year 1870, by a small number of cultured and public-spirited New Yorkers, and established with their own private money, for the instruction and recreation of their fellow-citizens.

On the 13th day of April, 1870, a charter was obtained from the Legislature of the State of New York.

On the 24th day of May, 1870, the members of the corporation held their first annual meeting, at which they elected their officers and trustees, and adopted a constitution.

In 1872, The Metropolitan Museum of Art was removed from its temporary quarters at 681 Fifth Avenue to 128 West Fourteenth Street. This large, double house, known as the Cruger Mansion, was leased for a number of years by the Trustees. The greenhouses and conservatories were fitted up for the exhibition of sculptures, and in one of its courtyards the Trustees built a picture-gallery. This gallery, lighted from the roof, had five times as much wall space as the old quarters on Fifth Avenue, and enabled the Trustees to extend the interest of the Museum by loan exhibitions of paintings, and the display of the Cesnola collection of antiquities from Cyprus, a portion of which had already arrived in this country. The Museum remained in this building until the middle of 1878, and was daily open to the public from 10 o'clock A.M. until 6 o'clock P.M.

On the 5th of April, 1871, the State Legislature, at the request of the Municipal Authorities of this City, passed an act appropriating the sum of $500,000, with which to erect a building in the Central Park, "for the purpose of establishing and maintaining therein a Museum and Gallery of Art."

PREFACE.

On April 22d, 1876, the Legislature authorized and directed the Department of Public Parks to make and enter into a contract with The Metropolitan Museum of Art, for the occupation by it of the building which was then being erected, and such other additions as may be made to it from time to time.

On the 24th day of December, 1878, the Park Department executed a written agreement with The Metropolitan Museum of Art, by virtue of which the Trustees took possession of the building in Central Park, which was then finished; and during the year 1879 all the collections of the Museum were removed from the building on Fourteenth Street and transferred to their new home in Central Park. Up to this date the Museum was managed, and its work done, by different Committees of Trustees; but it now became evident that the daily work had grown far beyond the possibility of being managed through the personal supervision of committees, and in 1879, Gen. L. P. di Cesnola, who was then a Trustee, and Secretary of the Board, was chosen Director and placed in charge of the Museum.

The new building in Central Park was formally opened by President Hayes, on March 30th, 1880. The first exhibition of the Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Collection took place November 7th, 1887, in one of the old Eastern galleries, where it remained until the opening of the new South wing, in 1888, when it was transferred to its present permanent home. The construction of the North wing was soon thereafter commenced, and brought to completion on November 5th, 1894, at which time, with appropriate ceremonies, it was formally opened.

This hand-book embraces all the pictures which are contained in the galleries, staircases, and the Grand Hall. A biographical sketch of each artist, with slight notes pertinent to the paintings, is given. Of the pictures herein catalogued, a few are lent, a large number have been purchased by the Trustees, and the others have been acquired either by gift or bequest. The larger portion of them are accompanied by conditions which render impossible a proper classification of the pictures in the galleries of the Museum, and, while the Trustees fully recognize the importance of such a classification of their exhibits, they do not believe it to be of greater importance than their acquisition. By the terms of the will of Miss Catharine Lorillard Wolfe.

her bequest must be kept together, and catalogued as one collection, or be forfeited to the legal heirs of the donor. Other donations and bequests of great value have from time to time augmented the treasures of the Museum, the first in importance being the munificent gift of Mr. Henry G. Marquand, embracing fifty-three oil paintings by old masters, and pictures of the English School. The Marquand collection comprises the entire Gallery No. 6.

The "Horse Fair," by Rosa Bonheur, was presented by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt; then followed the gifts of Judge Henry Hilton, "Friedland, 1807," by Meissonier, and the "Defense of Champigny," by Detaille. Mr. George I. Seney also presented twenty oil paintings, containing valuable examples of the Modern Dutch and American schools.

The Museum contains examples of nearly all the important schools of painting, from Jan Van Eyck and Hubert Van Eyck (1390—1440) to the latest and most interesting of the modern painters. In Gallery No. 1 may be seen the first acquisition of the Museum, by purchase in 1871, a collection of pictures comprised of works by the early Dutch and Flemish painters.

In the southeast staircase there is a group of eight pictures of the Renaissance period, purchased at Florence, and presented to the Museum by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt in 1880.

Gallery No. 7, is occupied with pictures from the collection of Mr. George A. Hearn, twenty-two of which he has presented to the Museum.

Important acquisitions by gift and bequest are frequent; among the most recent are: "Washington Crossing the Delaware," by Emanuel Leutze, presented by Mr. John S. Kennedy; "Portrait of George Washington," by Charles Wilson Peale, presented by Mr. C. P. Huntington; "Last Moments of John Brown," by Thomas Hovenden, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stoeckel; "Mercy's Dream," by Daniel Huntington, presented by the Artist; "Departure of Emigrants from Havre," by A. P. Dawant, presented by Mr. Thomas Achelis; Landscape "Scene at Napanoch," by William Hart, presented by his Children; and a portrait of President Henry G. Marquand, by John S. Sargent, presented by the Trustees of the Museum; "A Coast Scene," by G. Courbet; "Landscape with Sheep," by Chas. Jacque; "After the Ball," by Alfred Stevens, presented by Mrs. Mary Goldenberg ; "Peter's Repentance," by Ary Scheffer, presented by Mr. Edward Brandus ; "Old Bruton Church, Va.," by Wadsworth Thompson, presented by Mrs. Mary P. Thompson ; "Adelheid and the Bishop of Bamberg," by Carl Becker, presented by Mrs. Anna Woerishoffer ; "Portrait of Daniel O'Connell," by Sir Martin Archer Shee, presented by Mr. John D. Crimmins ; "The Grand Canal at Venice," by J. M. W. Turner, the bequest of Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt ; "Christopher Columbus," by Sebastiano del Piombo ; "Napoleon at St. Helena," by Benjamin R. Haydon ; "Lord Nelson in the Cabin of the 'Victory,'" by Charles Lucy, presented by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan ; "Cambyses' Punishment of an Unjust Judge," by P. P. Rubens, presented by Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, and "The Holy Family," by Peter Paul Rubens, presented by Mr. J. Henry Smith, in 1902.

The most important loan in the year 1902 is that of Mr. George W. Vanderbilt, who has lent for one year one hundred and thirty-five pictures from the collection formed by his father, Mr. William H. Vanderbilt, the value of which, from an artistic standpoint, can hardly be estimated. The Museum is also indebted to Mr. J. L. Menke, of Antwerp, Belgium, for the loan of forty-five old Dutch and Flemish pictures from his private collection, and to Dowdeswell & Dowdeswell for the loan of six works belonging to the early English and old Dutch schools.

All the paintings in Galleries Nos. 1, 5, 6, 9, 10, 12, and 13, including those in the staircases, are the property of the Museum, as well as a large number of those in Galleries Nos. 2 and 7.

The biographical matter given has been obtained through correspondence with the artists represented and from the most recent and reliable encyclopedias, biographies, and continental museum catalogues. If the picture is dated by the artist, the year is stated ; the size given is of the sight measure, or visible painted surface ; and in every instance the first number indicates the width in inches.

GALLERY 1.

PICTURES BY MASTERS OF THE OLD DUTCH AND FLEMISH SCHOOLS.

[N. B.—A part only of the pictures by Old Masters belonging to the Museum are hung in this Gallery.]

Teniers, David (the Younger).

Born at Antwerp, 1610; died at Perck, near Brussels, 1690. The most eminent genre painter of Belgium. He was instructed by his father, but was very much influenced by Rubens. His first wife was the daughter of Jan Brueghel, and the second, Isabelle de Fren, a daughter of the Secretary of State for Brabant. He was much favored by the Archduke Leopold William, and by Don Juan, of Austria; he excelled in representations of the alchemist, fairs, and festivals of all sorts. His touch was light and brilliant, his coloring exquisitely beautiful.

Teniers, though a Fleming by birth, belongs rather to the Dutch school in style, being one of the principal genre painters, of whom most of the other leading masters are Dutch. The place of Teniers in art history is that he was par excellence the painter of the pleasures of the ale-house and card-table. He was refined in person, enjoyed the highest patronage, and was the friend of courtiers and princes. Yet he remained throughout his life the painter of the pot-house.

I. A MARRIAGE FESTIVAL.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed. On canvas, 28½ x 25.

Oost, Jacob van (the Elder).

Born at Bruges about 1600; died there in 1671. History, genre, and portrait painter; pupil of his brother Frans; Master of the Guild in 1621; visited Italy, where he took for his model Annibale Carracci. Returned to Bruges in 1629.

2. PORTRAIT OF A GENTLEMAN.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 20¼ x 25¼.

GALLERY 1.

Terburg (Terborch), Gerard.

Born at Zwolle, 1617; died at Deventer, 1681. A contemporary of Teniers, and, like him, a painter of genre subjects, but of the higher ranks in life. He usually represented but few figures, and such scenes as ladies' toilets, musical parties, conversations, etc. He excelled in painting elegant costumes, and his white satin dresses are especially remarkable. The general tone of his pictures is cool, his heads being warmly colored. He painted small portraits, but these are rare in public galleries. His own is at The Hague. His works number a little more than one hundred, and are of enormous value.

3. PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 28¼ x 34¾.

Moor, Karel van.

Born at Leyden, 1656; died at Warmond, 1738. Pupil of Gerard Dou, Abraham van den Tempel, and Frans van Mieris. He painted sacred and profane history in large and small pictures, but his portraits were his best works. He imitated Gerard Dou in his small pictures, and etched a few portraits from his own designs, among which were those of Dou and Mieris.

4. A BURGOMASTER OF LEYDEN AND HIS WIFE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1873.

On canvas, 33½ x 44.

Helst, Bartholomeus van der.

Born at Haarlem, 1613; died at Amsterdam, 1670. One of the most renowned Dutch portrait painters. Sir Joshua Reynolds said of his picture painted to celebrate the peace of Westphalia, and representing an Archery Festival, "This is, perhaps, the first picture of portraits in the world, comprehending more of those qualities which make a perfect portrait than any other I have ever seen." His principal works are in the Gallery, and in the new Hôtel-de-Ville, at Amsterdam. In the Louvre, is a small replica of one of his finest works, and is considered superior to the large picture, which is in Amsterdam.

5. PORTRAIT OF A DUTCH BURGOMASTER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed and dated, 1644.

On canvas, 20½ x 25½.

Beyeren, Abraham van.

Born at The Hague in 1620 or 1621; died after 1674. A painter of still-life. Master of the Guild at The Hague in 1640, at Delft in 1657. Works in Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Lille, Frankfort, Berlin, Vienna, Pesth, and St. Petersburg.

6. A STUDY OF FISH.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 31 x 24½.

GALLERY 1.

Vinne, Vincent Laurensz van der.

Born at Haarlem, 1629; died there, 1702. History, portrait, landscape, and animal painter. Pupil of Frans Hals. Entered the Guild in 1649. Traveled in 1652-'53 through Germany, Switzerland, and France. He imitated the vigorous style of his master.

7. PORTRAIT OF ONE OF THE ARTIST'S BROTHERS.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 18½ x 24½.

Jordaens, Jacob.

Born at Antwerp, 1593; died there, 1678. Pupil of Adam Van Noort at the same time with Rubens, he became the follower and half assistant of the latter. He married early in life the daughter of Van Noort, and never visited Italy. He was a master of great power. He painted a variety of subjects. Many of his sacred pictures are in the churches of Flanders and Brabant, but they are not his best works. His pictures vary much, according as he was interested or not in his subject. His color was fine, his impasto somewhat unequal, but he excelled in depth of chiaroscuro, and a "certain golden glow," in which he sometimes surpassed even Rubens. The Holy Family, in this Gallery, is one of his best sacred pictures.

8. THE VISIT OF ST. JOHN TO THE INFANT JESUS.

In the centre of the picture, with one foot resting upon the globe and the other upon the head of a serpent, which encircles the world, stands the Child Christ, supported by Mary, who extends her right hand to the infant St. John, who is seated upon the back of a lamb. Joseph, with one hand resting lightly over the back of a wicker chair, in which is seated Anna, leans gently forward in rapt attention. Elisabeth, a black mantle covering her head and draping her figure, supports the infant St. John, and back of this group stands Zacharias and the guardian angel with outspread wings.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 58¼ x 66.

Fyt, Jan.

Born at Antwerp, 1611; died there, 1661. Animal and still-life painter; pupil of Jan van Goyen and of Frans Snyders, next to whom he was the greatest animal painter of the Flemish school. Master of the Guild in 1629; visited Italy and France (1633-'34 in Paris), and he often worked conjointly with Jordaens and Van Dyck.

9. DEAD GAME.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed. On canvas, 13¾ x 17¾.

Fyt, Jan. See No. 9.

10. DEAD GAME.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 29½ x 23.

GALLERY 1.

Hals, Frans.

Born at Antwerp, 1584; died at Haarlem, 1666. Pupil of Karel Van Mander. One of the merriest and brightest-witted of all the Dutch portrait painters.

He was the founder of a National style and a portrait painter to be ranked with the greatest masters; his unusual talent excited the admiration of Van Dyck.

His flesh coloring is vital; handling broad, masterly, and vigorous. His facility and intemperate habits led him to be careless, and his pictures are of unequal merit. He painted large pictures of archers and civic guards. The best of these may be seen at Haarlem in the Hôtel-de-Ville. In an apartment of the Oude Man Huys, a benevolent institution, there are two other fine works of this class.

II. HILLE BOBBE VON HAARLEM.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed. On canvas, 23½ x 29¼.

Wouvermans (or Wouwermans), Jan.

Born at Haarlem, 1619; died there, 1668. Pupil of his father and Jan Wynants. A white horse is almost the sign manual of this artist, who was seriously lacking in ideality, but clever in invention and skillful in execution. His pleasure is without a "gleam of higher things," and in his war pieces there is "no heroism, awe or mercy, hope or faith." His pictures are seen at The Hague, Dresden, Louvre, and in all large Galleries. The much admired "Hawking Scene," at Amsterdam, is a fine specimen of his later style.

12. THE HALT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On panel, 29¼ x 23.

Vinne, Vincent Laurensz van der. See No. 7.

13. PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST'S SISTER-IN-LAW.

Purchased by the Museum, 1873.

On canvas, 18½ x 24½.

Nason, Pieter.

Born probably at The Hague; died after 1680. Dutch school. Portrait and still-life painter; supposed pupil of Jan Van Ravestyn. Master of Hague Guild in 1639. One of the founders of the new Guild in 1656. A manly style and decided individuality characterize his portraits, which are excellently drawn and of careful execution.

14. PORTRAIT OF A MAN.

Presented by Countess Janzi, of Paris, 1888.

On canvas, 26 x 34.

GALLERY 1.

Dyck, Sir Anthony van.

Born at Antwerp, 1599; died at London, 1641. The most distinguished of Rubens' pupils. One of the many great artists whose gifts showed themselves almost from birth. He was the son of a glass painter. At ten he had already begun to paint; at fifteen he had entered Rubens' studio; and at nineteen he was himself a "master."

For five years (1620-25) he was traveling and painting in Italy, with letters of introduction from Rubens, and on his return to Antwerp he at once became the court painter of his time. Queens visited him in his studio, and the nobility of three nations considered it an honor to be painted by him.

He twice visited London, in 1620 and in 1627, before he finally settled there in 1632.

On his first presentation to Charles I, he obtained permission to paint the king and queen. He was appointed painter to the court, was knighted, and received a pension of £200. A town house was given him at Blackfriars and a country house at Eltham.

He always went magnificently dressed, had a numerous and gallant equipage, and kept so good a table in his apartment that few princes were more visited or better served.

For seven years Van Dyck worked at the portraits of the English aristocracy with indefatigable industry. Nearly half of all his known pictures are in England (a large collection of them was brought together at the Grosvenor Gallery in 1887), but in the National Gallery he is at present incompletely represented. There are no pictures there either of women or of children, in both of which he excelled.

The last two years of his life were mainly spent in traveling with his young wife, the granddaughter of Lord Ruthven. He died when only forty-two, and was buried in the old Church of St. Paul's.

Van Dyck was essentially the painter of princes, distinguished by the indelible mark of courtly grace and refinement which he gave to all his sitters.

15. ST. MARTHA INTERCEDING WITH GOD FOR A CESSATION OF THE PLAGUE AT TARASCON.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 28½ x 38½.

Steen, Jan.

Born at Leyden, 1626; died there, 1679. He loved a jovial, roistering life, and as a tavern keeper was able to indulge himself. It is remarkable that in his half drunken state he could have executed two hundred works of so much merit. He studied first with Nicholas Knupfer, and Van Goyen, whose daughter he married in 1649, and developed under the influence of Frans Hals and Adrian Van Ostade. He was fond of representing the humorous and ludicrous scenes incident to the life which he led, degenerating often into vulgarity. His pictures may be seen in nearly all of the large Continental Galleries.

16. A DUTCH KERMESSE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed. On canvas, 29½ x 24.

Vries, Adrian de.

Born at The Hague, 1601; died after 1643. He was the friend of Rubens and Van Dyck, and was highly esteemed by them as a portrait painter. His portraits are seen at Leyden, Dresden, Vienna, and other large Galleries.

17. PORTRAIT OF A DUTCH GENTLEMAN.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed and dated, 1643.
On canvas, 20½ x 24½.

Teniers, David (the Younger). See No. 1.

18. JUDITH WITH THE HEAD OF HOLOFERNES.

Presented by Gouverneur Kemble, 1872. On panel, 10 x 14.

Breughel (Brueghel), Jan, called Fluweelen (Velvet) Breughel.

Born at Brussels, 1568; died at Antwerp, 1625. The most gifted of his family. He had versatility of talent, and painted landscapes, peasants, and scriptural scenes. He often painted festoons and garlands of flowers around the figure subjects of Rubens and other eminent masters, in which he introduced butterflies and bright-colored insects in a profuse, delicate, and most skillful manner.

19. THE HILL.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. On panel, 10 x 7.

Rubens, Peter Paul, after. See No. 94.

20. PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST'S WIFE.

The original picture is full length, and is seen in the Vienna Gallery.

Presented by Mr. F. E. Church, 1880. On canvas, 29 x 36¾.

Steen, Jan. See No. 16.

21. THE OLD RAT COMES TO THE TRAP AT LAST.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. On canvas, 26 x 31.

Hondius, Abraham.

Born at Rotterdam, 1638; died at London, 1695. He lived many years in England. His favorite subjects were dogs. He acquired a good reputation, but his pictures are open to grave criticism. His drawing is incorrect, and his color not pleasing. His very rare etchings do him more honor as an artist than his paintings.

GALLERY 1.

22. WILD BOAR HUNTING.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $17\frac{1}{2} \times 12\frac{1}{2}$.

Breughel (Brueghel), Jan, called Fluweelen (Velvet) Breughel.

See No. 19.

23. THE WINDMILL.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On copper, $10\frac{1}{2} \times 7$.

Breughel, Jan (the Younger).

Born at Antwerp, —; baptized in 1601; died after 1677. Son and pupil of "Velvet" Breughel. He was little influenced by Italian art, and, like his father, he remained essentially Flemish. Rubens and other artists often supplied figures to his landscapes. He was for a long time unjustly ignored, as many of his pictures were attributed to his father.

24. A FLEMISH VILLAGE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On panel, $12\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{3}{4}$.

Jordaens, Jacob. See No. 8.

25. SKETCH FROM SACRED HISTORY.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $11\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$.

Koninck (Koning), Philip de.

Born at Amsterdam, 1619; died there, 1688. One of the best scholars of Rembrandt. He painted portraits and landscapes. The latter are exceedingly fine, and valuable from their rarity and excellence. His color is warm and clear, and his execution masterly. His pictures are sometimes adorned with figures by Lingelbach, and with animals by Dirk Van Bergen. Some of his finest works are in private English collections. In the Painters' Gallery at Florence there is a fine portrait of himself.

26. DUTCH LANDSCAPE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $31 \times 34\frac{1}{2}$.

Kalf, Willem.

Born at Amsterdam, 1630; died there, 1693. A painter of still-life. He especially excelled in the representation of elegant vases and porcelain vessels. He sometimes painted kitchen pieces, with vegetables and cooking utensils as prominent features. The Louvre and the Amsterdam Museum have one picture each by this master.

27. INTERIOR OF A DUTCH COTTAGE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $12\frac{3}{4} \times 10\frac{3}{4}$.

GALLERY 1.

Mieris, Willem van.

Born at Leyden, 1662; died in 1747. Son of Frans van Mieris, to whom he was much inferior. His best efforts are copies of his father's subjects. The Dresden Gallery has twelve of his works.

28. A TIPPLER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On panel, $8\frac{7}{8} \times 11\frac{3}{4}$.

Boyermands, Theodore.

Born at Antwerp, 1620; died, 1677. Biographers give very little information in regard to this artist or his works, but the single example in this Museum entitles him to both mention and consideration.

29. CHRIST EXPIRING ON THE CROSS.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $32\frac{3}{4} \times 43$.

Both, Jan (called the Italian), and Andries.

Born at Utrecht, 1610; died there after 1650. Jan and his brother Andries having learned the elements of painting from their father, Dirck, glass painter, were apprenticed by him to Abraham Bloemaert. The brothers traveled in France and Italy. At Rome, Jan imitated the style of Claude Lorrain and painted some excellent landscapes, in which Andries, who followed the manner of Van Laar, introduced figures and animals. It is said that Jan, after his brother was drowned at Venice, returned to Utrecht and died of grief soon after; but doubt is thrown upon this story by the signature of Jan, when dean of the Guild in 1649. He had returned to Utrecht in 1644.

30. ITALIAN LANDSCAPE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 62×50 .

Ostade, Adrian van.

Born at Haarlem, 1610; died there, 1685. Pupil of Frans Hals. An inimitable painter of rustic scenes and an excellent etcher. He had many pupils, one of whom was the famous Jan Steen.

31. THE OLD FIDDLER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 33×26 .

Lorme, Anton de, and Terburg (Terborch), Gerard (Terburg. See No. 3).

Anton de Lorme flourished at Rotterdam about 1640-1666. A painter of the interior of Dutch churches. His works are rare, and monotonous in tone, but his perspective and his light and shade are excellent. His best works have figures by Terburg and other artists.

32. INTERIOR OF A PROTESTANT CHURCH.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $29 \times 25\frac{1}{2}$.

Netscher, Caspar.

Born at Heidelberg, 1639; died at The Hague, 1684. One of the chief painters of Dutch "high life." His mother, after seeing her two elder children die of hunger, escaped with Gaspard through the investing lines of besieged Heidelberg to Arnheim. He studied under Koster at Arnheim, and Terburg at Deventer. In 1659 he started on a tour to Italy, but fell in love with a girl from Liège at Bordeaux, married and settled there, but soon returned to Holland and rapidly acquired fame as a portrait painter.

33. PORTRAIT OF A DUTCH LADY.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 10½ x 12.

Heem, Jan Davidsz de.

Born at Utrecht, 1600; died at Antwerp, 1674. The best painter of flowers and fruits, etc., of the school to which he belonged. He also excelled in representing glass or crystal. His works are very valuable. The two finest are in the Berlin and Vienna Galleries. Others are at The Hague and Amsterdam Museums, and in the Louvre. The Dresden and Cassel Galleries also have fine pictures by de Heem.

34. STILL-LIFE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed. On panel, 7½ x 9½.

Gelder, Aart de.

Born at Dordrecht, 1645; died there or at Amsterdam, 1727. Pupil of Rembrandt, and a good imitator of his style, though not equal to him in impasto and transparency of color. Many of his pictures pass for those of his master. His works are not numerous in public Galleries. The Amsterdam Museum has a portrait of Peter the Great, and the Dresden Gallery a man's portrait and an "Ecce Homo," by de Gelder.

35. PORTRAIT OF A DUTCH ADMIRAL.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 34¾ x 40.

Ruysch, Rachel.

Born at Amsterdam, 1664; died there, 1750. Daughter of a celebrated professor of anatomy, and pupil of Willem van Aelst. She devoted herself to flower painting until she was eighty years old. She married, but always signed her works with her maiden name.

36. PLANTS, FLOWERS, AND FRUIT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On panel, 8¾ x 11.

GALLERY 1.

Slingeland, Pieter van.

Born at Leyden, 1640; died there, 1691. Pupil of Gerard Dou. He devoted himself chiefly to genre subjects, homely scenes. His execution was labored, and his composition without grace.

37. PORTRAIT OF A DUTCH BURGOMASTER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. On canvas, 11½ x 14.

Huchtenburgh, Jan van.

Born at Haarlem, 1646; died at Amsterdam, 1733. He studied under Thomas Wyck; then in Rome, and returning, stopped in Paris, and received instructions from Van der Meulen. He painted landscapes, hunts, and battle-pieces. The latter are his best works. About 1708 he received commissions from Prince Eugene, and an excellent picture of that prince on horseback is in The Hague Gallery; others are in the Louvre and Amsterdam Museums. His chef-d'œuvre, the "Siege of Namur," is in the Vienna Gallery. He had good inventive powers, drew correctly, and had facility of execution, but his color was not equal to his other qualities.

38. A SIEGE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed. On canvas, 33 x 23.

NORTHEAST STAIRCASE.

Horremans, Jan Josef (the Younger).

Born at Antwerp, 1714; died after 1790. There were two artists by this name, father and son. They painted similar subjects, conversation pieces. The characters in the pictures of the father were usually peasants, while those of the son were from the higher walks of life. Their works are not uncommon in England, and are in the Antwerp Museum, and the Cassel and Dresden Galleries.

39. RETURNING FROM THE HUNT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. On canvas, 97¾ x 111¼.

Horremans, Jan Josef (the Younger). See No. 39.

40. THE HORSE POND.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. On canvas, 44¾ x 59.

Albani, Francesco.

Born at Bologna, 1578; died there, 1660. Son of a silk merchant. His father desired to bring him up to his own profession, but his decided art genius so asserted itself that he was placed in the academy of Denys Calvaert, where Guido Reni was a pupil. Albani and Guido became friends, and when the latter went to Rome and entered the school of Carracci, Albani quickly followed. When Annibale Carracci was employed on the frescos of St. Giacomo degli Spagnuoli he fell sick, and by his recommendation Albani was selected to finish them. He also painted the mythological frescos in the Verospi (now Torlonia) Palace. In the Borghese Gallery and at Turin are his famous pictures of the "Four Elements." He also painted for the Duke of Mantua the stories of "Diana and Actæon" and "Venus and Cupid." His best pictures are those of mythological and fanciful subjects.

GALLERY 1.

41. CHILDREN'S GAMES—THE MAZE, KITE, ETC.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 53 x 25.

Snyders, Franz.

Born at Antwerp, 1579; died there, 1657. This great animal painter was the pupil of Pieter Brueghel and Van Balen, the friend and co-worker of Rubens and Jordaens, and closely allied in friendship to Van Dyck, who painted his portrait. He executed animals in the landscapes of Rubens, and the latter painted figures in the works of Snyders. Philip V of Spain gave him large commissions. His works are in the principal European galleries and in private collections in England.

42. LIONS CHASING DEER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 82½ x 54.

Kessel, Jan van.

Born at Amsterdam, 1641 or '42. Died at Amsterdam, December 24, 1690. Landscape painter. Said to have been a pupil of Jacob Ruysdael, but lacking in many of the finer qualities which this artist possessed.

43. CANAL AT HAARLEM.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 54½ x 40¾.

Craeyer, Gaspard de.

Born at Antwerp, 1584; died at Ghent, 1669. Pupil of Raphael Van Coxcyen, in Brussels, a contemporary of Rubens, who, it is said, admired his works. He was also the friend of Van Dyck, who painted his portrait. Craeyer's pictures were mostly of biblical subjects. His color was subdued, but truthful; he had a free, masterly touch, and his feeling for beauty sometimes borders on the ideal. "The Coronation of St. Rosalie by the Infant Christ," in the Museum at Ghent, is one of his finest works; this picture was carried away by the French, but returned. The "Martyrdom of St. Blasius," in the same museum, was his last work, executed when he was eighty-six years old. In the Munich

GALLERY 1.

Gallery there is an immense enthroned Madonna with Angels, surrounded by Saints; the lower figures are portraits of himself, his brother, sister, and nephew. Works of his are also in the Louvre, Brussels Gallery, etc.

44. ALEXANDER AND DIOGENES.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 127 x 87½.

Cranach, Lucas (the Younger), attributed to.

Born at Wittenberg, 1515; died, 1586. Pupil of his father, Lucas the Elder, whom he succeeded in his studio at Wittenberg and as Burgomaster. He formed his style after his father and Albrecht Dürer. In the principal church of Wittenberg there are several of his works, and they are also in the Galleries at Munich, Dresden, etc.

45. MADONNA AND CHILD.

Presented by Mr. Louis Ehrich, 1895.

On canvas, 14 x 19.

Verendael (Veerendael), Nicolas van.

Born at Antwerp, 1640; died there, 1691. Still-life painter. Son and pupil of Willem Verendael. Approached Leghers in careful detail and drawing, but was inferior in power and clearness of color. His works are seen at the Antwerp Museum; Old Pinakothek, Munich; Dresden Gallery; Berlin Museum; Hermitage, St. Petersburg; and other large Galleries.

46. A GARLAND.

Huchtenburgh, Jan van. See No. 38.

47. REPOSE AFTER THE HUNT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 26¾ x 20¾.

Rubens, Peter Paul. See No. 94.

48. CAMBYSES' PUNISHMENT OF AN UNJUST JUDGE.

It is a tradition that the Persian king, Cambyses, caused an unjust and prevaricating judge to be skinned alive, and then appointed his son to fill the chair made vacant by the death of his father, and obliged him to sit upon a cushion made of his father's skin. Over the judge's seat the painter has displayed the face and hands of the victim. A finished study for the painting made for the Magistrates' Hall at the city of Brussels, and which was destroyed in the conflagration caused by the bombardment in 1695. ✓

Described and illustrated in L'Œuvre de P. P. Rubens, par Max Rooses, Vol. IV., p. 8.

Presented by Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, 1900.

On panel, 17 x 17.

Huysmans, Cornelis. (Called Huysmans of Mechlin.)

Born at Antwerp, 1648; died at Mechlin, 1727. Landscape painter. Pupil of Kasper de Witte, at Antwerp, and of Jacques d'Arthois, at Brussels, whence he went to Mechlin. Van der Meulen tried in vain to attract him to the Court of Louis XIV, but persuaded him to paint backgrounds for his "Environs of Luxembourg and Dinant," now in the Louvre.

49. ITALIAN LANDSCAPE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 30¼ x 24¾.

Hobbema, Meindert.

Born at Koeverden or at Amsterdam, 1638; died at Amsterdam, 1709. Hobbema, who disputes with Ruysdael the place of best Dutch landscape painter, was his pupil and intimate friend, and the works of the two are sometimes remarkably alike. Like Ruysdael, too, Hobbema was a painter without honor in his own country, and nine-tenths of his known works are in England. The specimens seen in Continental Galleries are ordinary, and he cannot be judged by them. One of the best is in the Berlin Museum. The National and Dulwich Galleries have each one of his works. The figures in his pictures were often executed by Adrian Van de Velde, Philip Wouvermans, and other distinguished artists.

50. LANDSCAPE—VIEW IN HOLLAND.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871. Signed.

On canvas, 25 x 19.

Tilborch (Tilborgh, Tilburg), Egidius or Gilles van.

Born at Brussels, 1625; died, about 1678 (?). Supposed pupil of David Teniers, the younger. Master of the Brussels Guild in 1654; its President in 1663-1664.

51. VISIT OF A LANDLORD TO A TENANT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 62½ x 45.

Lingelbach, Jan.

Born at Frankfort-on-the-Main, 1623; died, 1687. He went to Italy, but returned, and settled in Amsterdam, painting chiefly fairs, market-scenes, and battle-pieces.

52. SOBIESKI DEFEATING THE TURKS BEFORE VIENNA.

Stork, Abraham.

Born at Amsterdam, 1650; died in 1708. An imitator of Backhuysen, to whom he was inferior.

53. A SEAPORT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 26 $\frac{1}{8}$ x 20.

Ommeganck, Balthazar Paulwel.

Born at Antwerp, 1755; died there, 1826. Pupil of Antonissen. An admirable painter of landscapes and animals, especially sheep and goats. His works were much sought during his life. His color was rather cold, but he depicted nature with great truthfulness. Many of his works are in private galleries, but examples are seen in the Louvre, Brussels and Cassel Galleries.

54. FLEMISH PASTURE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 27 x 19 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Lingelbach, Jan. See No. 52.

55. DANCE OF PEASANTS.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 28 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 26.

Sart, Cornelis du.

Born, 1665; died, 1704. Dutch school. Little is known of this artist or his works, which are not numerous.

56. UNDER THE TRELLIS.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On panel, 5 $\frac{5}{8}$ x 6 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Metsys (or Massys), Quentin.

Born at Antwerp, 1460; died there, 1529. Early in life he was a blacksmith, and, it is said, became a painter for the sake of an artist's daughter, whom he loved, and whose father was determined she should marry none but a painter. Metsys, the first of the great Antwerp painters, was the last who remained faithful to the traditions of the early Flemish school. His most important work was an altar piece in three parts, now in the Museum of Antwerp. "The Misers," at Windsor Castle, is one of his most celebrated works. His pictures are seen in all large European Galleries. He is buried in front of the Cathedral in Antwerp, and the immediate spot is marked with the simple inscription, "M. Q. M., obiit 1529."

57. THE CROWN OF THORNS (School of Metsys).

Presented by Mr. S. P. Avery, 1884.

On panel, 7 x 10.

GALLERY 1.

Neefs, Pieter (the Younger).

Born at Antwerp, 1640; died in 1709. He painted the same subjects as his father—namely, church interiors—but in an inferior manner.

58. INTERIOR OF A CHURCH.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On panel, $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{3}{8}$.

Neer, Aart van der.

Born at Amsterdam, 1603; died there, 1677. An eminent landscape painter, whose representations of the setting sun are marked by a poetic feeling, and who especially excelled in rendering "The Penetrating Melancholy of Moonlight." The National Gallery has a fine example of this master, with animals and figures by Cuyp.

59. SUNSET.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $42\frac{1}{2} \times 31$.

Vos, Cornelis de (the Elder).

Born at Hulst, 1585; died at Antwerp, 1651. Pupil of David Remeeus; Master of the Guild of Antwerp in 1608; its Dean in 1619-20. Belongs to the school of Van Dyck, whose friend he was, and who painted his portrait. His works are in most of the Continental Galleries.

60. PORTRAIT OF A YOUNG LADY.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $36\frac{1}{2} \times 46$.

Weenix, Jan Baptista.

Born at Amsterdam, 1621; died near Utrecht, 1664. Pupil of Jan Micker, then of Abraham Bloemart, and of Nicholaas Moeyaert; went to Rome, 1643; returned to Amsterdam, 1647. Was one of the most eminent of the group of Dutch painters to which he belonged. Some of his best works are seen in the Munich cabinets. A "Sea Coast with a Repulse of Turkish Pirates," in the Louvre, is noticeable for its lighting.

61. FRUIT.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $18\frac{1}{2} \times 21\frac{3}{4}$.

Brekelenkamp, Quirin van.

Born at Swammerdam, near Leyden, —; died at Leyden, 1668. Probably a pupil of Gerard Dou, though his work recalls Metsu, and Adrian Van Ostade.

62. THE SPINNER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, $24\frac{1}{2} \times 18\frac{1}{2}$.

Bloemen, Pieter van (called "Standaart").

Born at Antwerp, 1657; died there 1720. Battle, genre, and landscape painter; pupil of Simon Van Douw and imitator of Wouwermans; Master of the Guild in 1674; spent some years in Rome, where he was a member of the Academy of St. Luke; returned to Antwerp and was made Director of the Academy in 1699. The influence of Wouwermans is always perceptible in the movement of the figures and horses which, as a rule, are cleverly done; and his landscapes are usually adorned with architectural ruins and broken statues.

63. HORSES TAKEN TO WATER.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 22½ x 16.

Goyen, Jan van.

Born at Leyden, 1596; died at The Hague, 1656. He studied under various artists of no great repute, and made a tour through France. In 1618, settled at Leyden and married; in 1631, removed to The Hague, where in 1640 he was president of the Guild.

64. THE MOERDYCK.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 23½ x 14¾.

Teniers, David (the Elder).

Born at Antwerp, 1582; died there, 1649. Pupil of his elder brother Juliaen, of Rubens, and in Rome of Adam Elsheimer. Master of Antwerp Guild in 1606; painted chiefly peasant scenes, but occasionally biblical and mythological subjects.

65. A DUTCH KITCHEN.

Before this picture came into the possession of the Museum the beef, which is now seen suspended at the right, was completely obliterated by a dark-gray cloth and other objects, which had been painted over it in an attempt to conceal or repair an injury to the canvas. The painting has recently been cleaned and these objects removed, leaving the composition the same as when the picture left the easel of the artist.

Ruisdael (Ruysdael), Salomon van.

Born at Haarlem, about 1600; died there, 1670. Pupil of Esaias Van de Velde and Jan Van Goyen. Entered the Haarlem Guild in 1623, and was its president in 1648. His pictures are usually views of canals, bordered with trees and houses, monotonous and thinly painted. Some of his best works are in the Munich, Dresden, and Berlin Galleries.

71. A DUTCH KERMESSE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 41¼ x 39.

Maes (Maas), Nicolas.

Born at Dordrecht, 1632; died at Amsterdam, 1693. Pupil of Rembrandt, and distinguished from most of the Dutch genre painters by his richer coloring. In the latter years of his life he seems to have become chiefly a portrait painter. The Amsterdam and Berlin Galleries, the Uffizi, and the Van der Hoop Collection have each one of his pictures, but most of them are in private collections. Smith mentions only forty-five of his works in all.

Mannozi, Giovanni.

Born at San Giovanni in 1590; died at Florence, 1636. Sometimes called Giovanni da San Giovanni. Pupil of Matteo Rosselli, whose finished style was not suited to the capricious imagination and facile execution of his pupil. Though he often fell into extravagance, Mannozi was capable of serious work. Works: "Portrait of a Cook," "Reunion of Huntsmen," "Madonna," Pitti, Florence; "Venus and Cupid," "Marriage of St. Catherine," "Jesus Served by Angels," "Madonna," Uffizi, Florence.

Bartolommeo, Fra (or Il Frate). Baccio della Porta.

Born at Savignano, 1469; died, 1517. He was a pupil of Cosimo Rosselli in Florence, and lived near the gate of St. Piero, from which circumstance was derived his name of della Porta. He was the intimate friend of Mariotto Albertinelli. He had acquired great fame for the beauty of his Madonnas, and had been commissioned to execute a fresco of the "Last Judgment" in the Convent of St. Marco, about the time when Savonarola went to Florence to preach against the sinfulness of the city. Bartolommeo became the earnest friend of the preacher, and was so carried away by his influence that he burned all his studies and drawings of profane subjects and those which represented nude figures. When Savonarola was seized, tortured, and burned, Bartolommeo took the vows of a Dominican friar, and left the unfinished pictures to be completed by Albertinelli. During four years he led a most austere life, never touching his pencil. About this time Raphael arrived in Florence. He was but twenty-one, but already a great painter. He visited the friar's cell, and a deep friendship between the two was the consequence. To this we owe the after works of Fra Bartolommeo. About 1513 he visited Rome. After his return to Florence he executed the "Madonna della Misericordia," now at Lucca, and the "St. Mark," which is in the Pitti Palace. His boy angels are beautifully painted. His works are seen in the Louvre, Vienna Gallery, and the Berlin Museum, but he is best studied in Florence.

Correggio.

Born at Correggio in 1494 (?); died there, March 5, 1534. Lombard school. Real name, Antonio Allegri; son of Pellegrino Allegri. Probably pupil of his father's brother, Lorenzo, and of Antonio Bartolotti, both second-rate painters of his native town. At Modena he is said to have found a better master in Francesco Bianchi, called Ferrari, who belonged to the school of Francia; but as Bianchi died in 1510, this, like all that concerns Correggio's training, is uncertain. "Correggio looked at the world in a single mood of sensuous joy," as a place in which everything is full of happy life and soft pleasure. A poetic ideality untrammelled by the conventionality of schools, systems, or methods other than his own, found fullest expression in an all-pervading sweetness which characterizes his works. "The Madonna of St. Francis" (1514), "Madonna of St. George," "Madonna of St. Sebastian," "La Notte" (1522 or 1528), "Magdalen," and "Correg-

Pollajuolo, Antonio.

Born at Florence, 1433; died there, 1498. Antonio and his brother Pietro were workers in bronze and silver ornaments, and also painters. It is said that Antonio was the first artist who dissected the human body in order to know how to represent it. Their most excellent productions represented contests of strength and muscular action, such as "Hercules and Hydra," and the "Death of Antæus." In painting, their model was Andrea del Castagno. Their masterpiece is, without doubt, "St. Sebastian," in the National Gallery. "The Archangel and Tobit" is in the Gallery of Turin. Other examples are seen in the Galleries of Florence, Berlin, Munich, and Modena.

82. ST. CHRISTOPHER AND THE INFANT CHRIST.

Mannozi, Giovanni. See No. 79.

83. MARY MAGDALEN.

Presented by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, 1880. On plaster, 19 x 14.

Allori, Christofano.

Born at San Giovanni, 1577; died at Florence, 1621. Pupil of Matteo Rosselli, and afterwards pupil of Santo di Tito, both scholars of Angelo Bronzino, whose style Christofano at first followed, but abandoned for the new Florentine eclectic manner based on that of Correggio. He became one of the best artists in Florence of his time, but his habits were irregular, and he left but few pictures. He excelled in portrait painting.

Dürer, Albrecht.

Born at Nuremberg, 1471; died there, 1528. This artist, if not really the founder of the German school, perfected the art which already existed in his country. He was a sculptor, architect, and painter. He also wrote various theoretical works. His drawing was rich in life and expression; his coloring very unequal; his nude figures ugly and vulgar, and his love for the fantastic prevented him from becoming what he might otherwise have been. He became a disciple of Michael Wolgemuth, in whose atelier he remained three years. In 1490 he set out on his travels, and in 1494 returned to Nuremberg and settled himself as a painter. He remained there ten years. In 1505 he went to Venice, Padua, and Bologna. The following year he returned to Nuremberg, where he remained till 1520, and executed an immense number of paintings, drawings, engravings, and some carved works in boxwood and steatite. He then made a journey into the Netherlands, was absent about a year, and returned to his native city, never to leave it again. Although his pictures are scarce, the large German Galleries have specimens of his work. "The Four Temperaments" are now in the Pinakothek at Munich. This Gallery has also five large pictures of the life of Christ. The Virgin holding the naked Child in her arms is now in the Belvedere at Vienna. These are but a small part of the important works of Dürer.

86. HEAD OF AN APOSTLE.

Presented by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, 1880.

On plaster, 13 x 17½.

Ghirlandajo. (Real name, Domenico di Tommaso Curradi di Dosso Bigordi.)

Born at Florence, 1449; died there, 1494. It is said that his father was a goldsmith, who made such exquisite garlands for the hair that he was called Ghirlandajo (the garland-twiner), which name descended to his children. Vasari says he studied under Fra Bartolommeo. He became a mosaist and celebrated painter. He introduced in his pictures the portraits of celebrated and important personages of his time, and was original in many ways. His life is a landmark in the history of Florentine art. In the technicalities of fresco painting he excelled.

GALLERY 1.

His works are highly finished, and may be seen in the Louvre; six pictures in the Berlin Museum, and others in the Dresden, Munich, and National Galleries. Ghirlandajo was the master of Michael Angelo.

91. A COMBAT OF CAVALRY.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 24 x 18.

Ryckaert, David.

Born at Antwerp, 1612; died there, 1661. The third painter of his name. He was instructed by his father, and devoted himself to interiors with peasants, fairs, etc. His coloring is clear and golden, his heads are animated, and although inferior to Teniers, he often approaches him in excellence. The Vienna and Dresden Galleries have fine examples of his works. In 1652, this master was Dean of the Guild of St. Luke, at Antwerp.

92. THE STOWAGE.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 45 x 36.

Havermann, Margareta.

Born at Amsterdam in the eighteenth century. There seems to be little known of this artist, but judging from the picture seen in this Museum, she is entitled to a place among the most clever of the school to which she belongs.

and one of the great masters of the world. This remarkable man, scholar, painter, and diplomatist, was descended from two good families. His father, John Rubens, was one of two principal magistrates of Antwerp, and his mother, Mary Pypeling, belonged to a distinguished family of the same city. Rubens' talent for drawing early led him to decide upon painting as a profession. He entered the school of Adam Van Noort, with whom he remained four years. Another four years was passed in the studio of Otto Vœnius, whose cultivation of mind and taste was of more advantage to Rubens than his instruction in painting. In 1598 he was admitted to the Guild of Painters in Antwerp; his father had died, and his mother had returned to that city. In 1600 he went to Venice and studied the works of Titian and Paul Veronese. For eight years Rubens was in the service of the Duke of Mantua. An excellent Latin scholar, he was also proficient in French, Italian, English, German, and Dutch. These gifts procured him diplomatic employment. In 1603 he was sent on a mission to Spain. In 1608 news of his mother's illness reached him, and he hastened home, when he was appointed Court painter to the Archduke Albert, then Governor of the Netherlands. In 1620 he visited Paris at the invitation of Marie de' Medici (a sister of the Duchess of Mantua). In 1628 he was sent on a mission to Philip IV of Spain, and in the following year he was sent to Charles I of England. Here he was knighted, and was given an honorary degree by the University of Cambridge. But wherever he went, Rubens continued to paint, and his diplomacy he considered as a mere recreation. "The painter Rubens," he is reported to have said of himself, "amuses himself with being ambassador." How hard he labored is known by the enormous number of his works—between 2,000 and 3,000. In 1609 Rubens married his first wife, Isabella Brant, who died in 1626, leaving two sons, to whom Gevartius was tutor. It was in 1630 that he married Helen Fourment, a niece of his first wife. She was but sixteen years old. She bore him five children, survived him, and married again. Both his wives so often served him for models that their forms and faces are familiar to the world. He died in 1640, and was buried in his private chapel in the Church of St. Jacques, which is decorated with a magnificent work of his own.

94. RETURN OF THE HOLY FAMILY FROM EGYPT.

This admirable picture was painted for the Church of the Jesuits at Antwerp, soon after Rubens' return from Italy, and before he had called in the aid of assistants. It was done immediately after finishing the famous "Crucifixion" in the Cathedral of Antwerp, and before the execution of its companion picture, that other masterpiece, "The Descent from the Cross;" or, in other words, at the period when this prince of painters produced his greatest works. Grandeur of style and power of coloring are equally the characteristics of The Return from Egypt. Reference is made to it in the catalogue of a sale, May 20, 1777, of the pictures taken from churches and convents of the Jesuits, at Antwerp, suppressed by the decree of the Emperor Joseph II: "Return from Egypt. The Infant Jesus, the Holy Virgin, and St. Joseph. The Eternal Father is seen in the upper part of the picture, enveloped in clouds. Well grouped. Painted on wood. H., 7 ft. 9 in.; B., 5 ft. 4 in." It was bought at this sale by the rich banker Danoot, and is thus described in the catalogue of the Danoot sale (page 27, No. 61), held at Brussels in 1828, when it was bought by Mr. Buchanan, one of the most skillful London experts: "The Return from Egypt. The Holy Virgin and St. Joseph hold by the hand the Redeemer of the World. The mother looks with solicitude on the Divine Infant. The Child raises His eyes to her, and seems to announce to her a happier destiny. The Father from heaven contemplates this scene with tenderness. An admirable picture, well composed, and painted with decision. It cannot be seen without exciting a sentiment of respect and devotion." It is also mentioned in Smith's Catalogue, Vol. 2, page 21, No. 71. Smith's description is from Bolswert's engraving, where the engraver has introduced the Holy Spirit, and an aureole around the head of St. Joseph, which never existed in the original; and is described in the Life of P. P. Rubens, by I. F. Michel, Brussels, 1771: "At the end of the small nave at the right is another piece by the same master, representing the Virgin and St. Joseph leading the Infant Jesus by the hand. Although the composition is unpretentious, the feeling in the heads and the beauty of the flesh tints cause it to be much admired." It is also mentioned in all the other guide-books for amateurs in Belgium, etc., and in the "Histoire de P. P. Rubens," by Andrew Van Hasselt, page 248, No. 214, and in the "Dictionary of Painters," by A. Siret, page 787, 2d edition. This picture was recently transferred from wood to canvas.

Berchem (Berghem), Nicholas.

Born at Haarlem, 1624; died, 1683. Son of Pieter Klaasze. The reason for his being called Berchem, or Berghem, is not known, but he usually signed his works by that name. He studied with his father, Van Goyen, J. B. Weenix, and Jan Wils, and married the daughter of the latter. It is evident from his works that he went to Italy, although no account of his having done so is given. He painted genre, battles, landscapes, cattle, and portraits. His best works are his small landscapes with figures and cattle. Berchem is the most celebrated of the group of painters to which he belongs. Smith describes 417 of his works, and he left besides more than fifty etchings. The galleries of Munich, Dresden, Vienna, Berlin, St. Petersburg, and the Louvre contain the largest number of his works. Some are also in England, in the National Gallery, and at Dulwich, and Lord Ashburton has one of his best productions, called "Le Fagot." He seldom made large pictures.

Marne, Jean Louis de (called Demarnette).

Born at Brussels, 1754; died, Batignolles, Paris, 1829. Pupil of Gabriel Briard. His love for the old Dutch masters is made evident in his own works, where may be seen reflected many of their fine qualities of color and exquisite technique. Works: "Road with Diligence," "Fair at the Door of an Inn," "Starting for a Wedding in a Piombo, Fra Sebastiano del.

Born, 1485 ; died, 1547. Sebastiano Luciani, called del Piombo, from his holding the office of Keeper of the Leaden Seal, was originally a painter and musician at Venice, where he studied successively under Bellini and Giorgione. His portraits in oil had won him fame before he was invited to Rome by the famous banker, Agostino Ghigi, in 1512. At this time the papal court was divided into two strong parties, one led by Raphael, the other by Michelangelo, and the latter, feeling his own defects as a colorist, courted Sebastiano, in hope that, by uniting Venetian color with his own grand design, Raphael could be outdone. When Cardinal Giulio de' Medici commissioned Raphael to paint the "Transfiguration," he also commissioned Sebastiano to paint "Raising of Lazarus," now in the National Gallery, London. The pictures, when finished, were exhibited side by side.

Presented by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, 1900. Signed.

On canvas, 34 x 41.

Tiepolo, Giovanni Battista.

Born at Venice, April 16, 1696. Died at Madrid, March 27, 1770. Venetian School ; pupil of Gregorio Lazzarini, afterwards influenced by Giovanni Battista Piazzetta, and still more by Paolo Veronese, whose equal he was reputed to be, in the decadence of Venetian Art, though he was far from being so as a colorist. He has been rightly called the last decorative painter of the Venetian School.

Maratti (or Maratta), Carlo.

Born at Camurano, 1625 ; died at Rome, 1713. (Called also Carluccio della Madonna from the large number of Madonna pictures that he painted.) Was an imitator of Raphael, and for nearly half a century the most eminent painter in Rome. The portrait of a Pope or Cardinal should have come kindly to him, for he was in the service of several Popes, and was appointed Superintendent of the Vatican Chambers by Innocent XI. Clement XI entrusted to him the complete restoration of the frescos of Raphael, and gave him the insignia of the "Order of Christ" for his labor upon them. He was President of the Academy of St. Luke at the time of his death.

110. PORTRAIT OF CLEMENT IX.

On canvas, $29\frac{1}{2}$ x $36\frac{1}{2}$.

Guardi, Francesco.

Born at Venice, 1712 ; died, 1793. Pupil of Canaletto. He painted the same class of subjects as his master, and the works of the two are sometimes confounded ; but those of Guardi are more sketchy than Canaletto's. They are spirited and lifelike, have countless figures, gondolas, etc., all of which show a freedom of execution ; while his sharp touches of light and bright colors give spirit and sparkling effect.

Stuart, Gilbert.

Born at Narragansett, Rhode Island, December 3, 1755; died Boston, July 27, 1828. After some unaided efforts he received instruction from Cosmo Alexander, a Scotch portrait painter, whom he accompanied to Scotland in 1772. The death of his master left Stuart to shift for himself, and after struggling a while at the University of Glasgow, he returned home. In 1775 he went again to England, where he found a friend in Benjamin West, whose studio he entered as a pupil, but soon became an assistant to his master. In 1785 he set up a studio of his own in London, achieving marked popularity and financial success. He visited Ireland in 1788, where he was received with great favor, and painted the portraits of many distinguished persons, and returned to America in 1792. Soon after his arrival in New York the Duke of Kent offered to send a ship of war for him if he would go to Nova Scotia and paint his portrait, but he declined the offer. Among his sitters in Europe were three Kings: Louis XVI, George III, and George IV while Prince of Wales. He painted also Alderman Boydell, John Kemble, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Benjamin West, and many other distinguished artists. Six Presidents of the United States sat to him for their portraits, viz.: George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, and John Quincy Adams. After working two years in New York, Philadelphia, and Washington, Stuart settled in Boston, where he resided the remainder of his life. Stuart was gifted with a perception which enabled him to select the true lines of thought and character of his sitter, which he rendered without hesitation. A collection of two hundred and fifteen of his works was exhibited in the Boston Athenæum soon after his decease, for the benefit of his family, which realized a considerable sum.

Linen, George.

Born at Greenlaw, Scotland, 1802; died, New York, 1888. Student of the Royal Scottish Academy in Edinburgh. Afterwards he spent some years in the successful practice of his profession in England, coming to America in 1843, settling in New York. He excelled in painting cabinet portraits in oil, and his ability was soon recognized. Added to his facility in securing a likeness, he finished his pictures with extreme delicacy, without in the least robbing them of their force and character. He painted Henry Clay and Daniel Webster. In 1839 the National Academy of Design awarded him the medal offered for the best specimen of portrait painting exhibited.

Leslie, Charles Robert.

Born of American parents, at Clerkenwell, London, October 11, 1794; died, London, May, 1859. His father, a watchmaker of Philadelphia, returned to America in 1800, and on his death, 1804, Charles was apprenticed to a bookseller, but in a few years he was enabled to return to London, where he became a student at the Royal Academy (1813). Although his first pictures were meritorious, it was not until his return from the continent, in 1817, that he displayed his special talent in the picture of "Slender, and Anne Page." Two years later he exhibited his "Sir Roger de Coverley" (Marquis of Lansdowne), which left him without a rival in this class of subjects. He became an A.R.A. in 1821, and R.A. in 1826. In 1833 he accepted the professorship of drawing at West Point, but held the position only a few months. Returning to England, he painted two historical pieces for the Queen, "The Coronation," 1838, and "The Baptism of the Princess Royal." He was professor of painting at the Royal Academy from 1847 to 1852.

125. PORTRAIT OF DR. JOHN WAKEFIELD FRANCIS.

Born, 1789; died, 1861. His father was a German, who came to this country after the close of the Revolution and settled in New York, where his son was born and died. He was apprenticed to a printer, but subsequently entered Columbia in 1807, and was graduated 1809. He soon began the study of medicine in the office of Dr. Hosack, whose partner he was until 1820. He visited Europe in 1816, and during his stay he studied under Abernethy. On his return he devoted himself to the practice of his profession and to literature. He was active in the interests of the New York Historical Society, the Lyceum of Natural History, the Woman's Hospital, the State Inebriate Asylum, the Typographical Society, and other public institutions. His taste in art was fine, and young artists always found in him a friend. He was the first President of the New York Academy of Medicine, the author of many professional works and "Old New York, or Reminiscences of Sixty Years," and was looked upon as an oracle in matters relating to his native city. 1816.

Brouwer, Adrian.

Born at Oudenarde, 1605 or 1606; died at Antwerp, 1638. Genre painter. Like Frans Hals and Adrian Ostade, he was a painter of great originality, fertile in imagination, clever and forceful in execution. His works are both rare and valuable.

156. THE SHAKING FIST.

An ordinary workman is shaking his fist at a woman, who, standing at a rather peculiar window at the right, puts out her tongue at him. The man reminds one in a striking manner of a similar figure in the well-known painting, "A Bitter Drink," of which Otto Reim made a drawing which was published in Seemann's Zeitschrift für Bildende Kunst.
On wood panel, 8 x 9.

Kalf, Willem. See No. 27.

165. LANDSCAPE WITH CATTLE.

Max Rooses says of this picture: "The work has the good qualities of the master. The man's red coat and white horse are painted in a strong, full, and bright tone; a warm light falls on the backs of the cows and envelopes them in a golden hue. It is a glorification of men and animals by rich and bright colours and bright light."

169. THE VIRGIN AND CHILD.

In the carved frame is the coat-of-arms of Count Vinci, to whom this picture belonged in 1751. In his Catalogue Raisonné of the works of Van Dyck, John Smith described it in the following manner: "The composition represents the Virgin clothed in a scarlet vest, with blue sleeves, and in a blue mantle. She holds the Infant Saviour erect at her left side with both hands under His arms; His countenance and attention are turned from His parent while at the same time He bends slightly towards her and extends His right hand to her bosom; His left holds the white linen which surrounds His loins. Some blue drapery, thrown across the scroll of a couch, is under His feet. Her beautiful, expressive countenance and eyes are raised to Heaven. A portion of a pillar and an obscured sky form the background." Engraved by Salvador.

Max Rooses in De Vlaamsche School, 1895, p. 180: "Mr. Menke exhibited a painting by Van Dyck representing the Madonna and Child, a very fine variation of the well-known composition in which the Virgin looks towards Heaven and holds the Child erect, with her hands under His arms. There are many repetitions of this work, all painted in the warm tone of the master, and this reminds us of the Venetian one."

208. THE HOLY FAMILY.

The Virgin is seated at the right dressed in a red robe, with an under-skirt of a deeper tone which is folded across her lap; from underneath, the white drapery falls to her feet. Her left arm is extended and rests gracefully on the folds of a dark green mantle which has been laid over the back of her seat. The Infant Christ standing upon His mother's knee, with one arm thrown about her neck and the other extended downwards, turns His head in loving greeting to St. John. Behind the Mother and Child is Elizabeth, her right hand gently touching the Infant's arm, and above, at the right, St. Joseph contemplates the scene. At the left of the composition, St. Francis d'Assisi in a brown habit, with his arms crossed over his breast, bends forward with an expression of rapt devotion. At his feet is the Lamb. Beyond, a background of glowing color, brilliant cumulous clouds streaked with crimson at the horizon, a tree with luxuriant foliage, a chateau in the middle distance, and an architectural ruin in the foreground, complete the composition.

Haydon, Benjamin Robert.

Born at Plymouth, 1786 ; died at London, 1846. Student at the Royal Academy in 1805 ; exhibited in 1809 his "Dentatus Murdered by His Own Soldiers," but, dissatisfied with the position assigned it, refused to contribute any more. After painting portraits in Plymouth, he won a considerable reputation in 1814 by his "Judgment of Solomon," which sold for seven hundred guineas. In 1820 he produced "Christ's Entry into Jerusalem," the exhibition of which, in London, brought him three thousand guineas ; but it procured him no commissions, and was finally sold for two hundred and forty pounds and sent to America. It is now in Philadelphia. Though in great pecuniary difficulties, and several times in the debtor's prison, he still clung to the belief that he was the great historical painter of the age, and that in time his efforts would be appreciated. But he was at last overwhelmed by his Extract from a Catalogue Raisonné of the engraved works of Sir Joshua Reynolds from 1755 to 1820, by Ed. Hamilton, London, Colnaghi & Co., 1874 : "Hawksworth, John, LL.D., born 1715, son of a watchmaker at Bromley; died 1773, it is said, from elation at being offered £6,000 (an immense sum at that time) for the history of Cook's voyages, with illustrations engraved in mezzotint, by James Watson." The portrait was painted in 1773, and was in the possession of Mr. Graves, Pall Mall. Bought by Mr. D. F. Appleton, N. Y., 1892. Sold by Mr. S. P. Avery, Jr., to Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, 1893.

Presented by Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, 1893. On canvas, 24½ x 29½.

Lucy, Charles.

Born at Hereford, 1814; died at Notting Hill, 1873. History painter. He studied at the Beaux-Arts and also under Paul Delaroche; afterwards he became a pupil of the Royal Academy, London. His works are important on account of their subject and the scale on which they are painted, rather than for their originality. Many of his pictures have been engraved.

Lely, Sir Peter. (Real name, Peter van der Faes.)

Born at Soest, 1617; died in London, 1680. Pupil of Pieter de Grebber in Haarlem, but on coming to England with William of Orange in 1643, he so closely studied the manner of Van Dyck, who had just died, that his earlier portraits often approach the great master's style. For thirty years he was the most popular portrait painter in England and amassed a large fortune. Nominated court painter and knighted by Charles II.

225. PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

Purchased by the Museum, 1871.

On canvas, 18 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 23 $\frac{1}{2}$.

226. THE GRAND CANAL, VENICE.

Bequeathed by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, 1899.

On canvas, 47 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 35 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Shee, Sir Martin Archer.

Born at Dublin, 1769; died at Brighton, 1850. He came from an old Irish family, and it was Burke who introduced him, when he came from Dublin to London in 1789, to Reynolds. His own suavity and good manners were even better introductions to the portrait painter's clientele, and he soon met with distinguished patrons. In 1789 he was elected A.R.A., and having married, moved into Romney's old house in Cavendish Square. In 1800 he became R.A., and upon the death of Sir Thomas Lawrence, in 1830, he was elected to the presidency of the Royal Academy. In 1805 he published a volume of verse (followed in 1809 and 1814 by others), which called forth praise from Byron in his "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers":

"And here let Shee and genius find a place,
Whose pen and pencil yield an equal grace:
While honors, doubly merited, attend
The poet's rival, but the painter's friend."

227. PORTRAIT OF DANIEL O'CONNELL.

Presented by Mr. John D. Crimmins, 1899.

On canvas, 28 x 36.

Reynolds, Sir Joshua, P.R.A.

Born, 1723; died at London, 1792. Sir Joshua, the first President of the Royal Academy, was born in Devonshire, at Plympton Earl, where his father was a schoolmaster. "Done by Joshua out of pure idleness," wrote his father over a drawing which the boy had done in his exercise-book. "While I am doing this," wrote Joshua himself of his drawing, a few years later, "I am the happiest creature alive."

GALLERY 2.

When he was eighteen he was sent up to London to study under Hudson. After two years he had made such good progress as to estrange his master. After a year spent at Plymouth he came up to London again; but upon his father's death he returned, in 1746, to Plymouth, where he won the friendship of Lord Edgcumbe, who introduced him to Captain Keppel, who offered to take him to Italy on board his own ship, the "Centurion." In May, 1749, they set sail, and till the end of the year Reynolds stayed with the Governor of Minorca, painting portraits. For two years he studied in Rome. From Rome he went to Parma, Florence, and Venice. At Parma he came under Correggio's influence; at Venice he studied Titian. "To possess a real, fine picture by that great master," he once said, "I would willingly ruin myself."

Reynolds returned to London in 1752. He settled first in St. Martin's Lane; afterwards in Great Newport Street, and finally (from 1760 onward) in Leicester Square, where his house (No. 47) may still be seen—nearly opposite to the site of Hogarth's. From this time forward Reynolds' life was one unbroken success. Other painters arose from time to time to divide his popularity, Opie, Gainsborough, and Hoppner; but Reynolds' supremacy was never seriously threatened. In 1768, when the Royal Academy was founded, he was elected President by acclamation, and was knighted by the king—an honor which has ever since been offered to the holder of that office.

228. PORTRAITS OF THE HON. HENRY FANE AND HIS GUARDIANS, INIGO JONES AND CHARLES BLAIR.

Presented to the Museum by Mr. Junius S. Morgan, of London, 1887. This picture was purchased by Mr. Morgan from the Earl of Westmoreland. It had been in the Gallery of the Earls of Westmoreland, at Apsthorpe, in Northamptonshire, since it was painted, about 1774. The Hon. Henry Fane, the central figure of the group, was second son of the 8th Earl of Westmoreland, and succeeded to the title at the age of fifteen. On either side are his two guardians; the one seated at his right being his brother-in-law, Charles Blair, and the other, standing at his left, Inigo Jones. The picture is engraved in vol. 3d of the published engravings of works by Sir Joshua Reynolds.

On canvas, 142 x 100.

Durand, Asher Brown.

Born at South Orange, N. J., August 21, 1796; died there, 1886. He studied engraving with his father and with Peter Maverick, whose partner he became in 1817. His "Declaration of Independence," after Trumbull, first brought him into prominent notice as an engraver. He was one of the original members of the National Academy of Design, organized in 1826, and was elected president at the resignation of Professor Morse in 1845, a position he held until 1861. About 1835 he resolved to become a painter, and until the time of his death devoted himself to that branch of the profession. Among the better known of his earlier works are: "Harvey Birch and Washington," "The Wrath of Peter Stuyvesant," "The Capture of André," "Dance on the Battery," "The Forest Primeval," and "Franconia Mountains."

Many of his pictures have been engraved.

232. ARIADNE (after Vanderlyn).

Presented by Mr. S. P. Avery, 1897.

On canvas, 18 x 14.

Trumbull, Col. John.

Born at Lebanon, Conn., June 6, 1756; died, New York, November 10, 1843. History and portrait painter. Served in the War of Independence, in 1775, as aide-de-camp to Washington, and in 1776 as deputy Adjutant-General under Gates; retired from service in 1777 with rank of Colonel. Went to London in 1780 to study under Benjamin West, but was imprisoned eight months, and returned home in 1782; went again on the conclusion of peace, and resumed his studies. His "Battle of Bunker Hill" (1786, engraved by J. G. Müller) was the first of a series of historical works illustrating the war of the Revolution. It was followed by the "Death of Montgomery" (engraved by F. Clements), and the "Sortie from Gibraltar" (engraved by Sharp). Returned to America in 1789, accompanied Mr. Jay to England in 1794 as Secretary of Legation, and was engaged several years in diplomatic work; painted in England in 1808-15, and was engaged in 1817-24 in painting four pictures for the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington,

237. A SPANISH GIRL.

Presented by Mr. Lyman G. Bloomingdale, 1901.

Peale, Charles Willson.

Born at Charlestown, Md., 1741; died, 1827. Pupil of Benjamin West. To Peale belongs the honor of having painted more portraits of Washington from life than any other artist. In 1772 he drew a half-length portrait of Washington at Mount Vernon (painting also three miniatures "for Mrs. Washington" and the Custis children), and making at the same time the "bust study," which he kept for many years. For other portraits, Washington gave him sittings in 1776, 1778, 1779, 1781, 1783, 1786, 1787, and finally in 1795, enabling Peale to paint in all fourteen portraits from life.

238. GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Full-length life size, standing in the uniform of a general. The right hand is upon hip and holds his hat; the left is resting upon a cannon. The broad blue sash which he prescribed for himself in General Orders, "Cambridge, July 14, 1775," to designate the Commander-in-chief, passes diagonally across the breast over the right shoulder beneath the coat. This mark of distinction is omitted from several of the pictures painted by Peale. The picture was purchased by Mr. S. P. Avery, Jr., from Miss Bell, of Tooting, Surrey, England, in whose family it had been for several generations, and by him sold to Mr. C. P. Huntington.

Presented by Mr. C. P. Huntington, 1897. On canvas, 61 x 94.

Sully, Thomas.

Born at Horncastle, Lincolnshire, England, June 8, 1783; died, Philadelphia, November 5, 1872. Portrait painter; taken to Charleston, S. C., by his parents, who were comedians, in 1792; was first instructed by M. Belzons, a French miniature painter, in Richmond, Va., and painted there, and at Norfolk until his brother Lawrence's death, in 1804. In 1806, having married his brother's widow, he removed to New York, and lived there, excepting a short visit to Boston for instruction from Gilbert Stuart, until 1808, when he removed to Philadelphia. In 1809 he went to London, studied several months under Benjamin West, and coming back in 1810, settled permanently in Philadelphia. He again visited England in 1837-38, and in the latter year painted from life a portrait of Queen Victoria, from which he painted a full-length portrait of the queen arrayed in robes of state. Between 1820 and 1840, he exhibited ten portraits at the Royal Academy.

Waldo and Jewett.

Waldo, Samuel L.

Born in Connecticut, 1783 ; died at New York, 1861. He received his first instructions in art in his native State, but painted for some time in Charleston, S. C. In 1806 he went to London, and was admitted into the small but select circle of American artists then in the English metropolis. After painting portraits in London for three years, he returned to the United States in 1809, and opened a studio in New York, where the balance of his professional life was spent. He devoted himself to portrait painting with marked success.

Jewett, William S.

Born, February 14, 1795, at East Haddam, Conn.; died, 1873. At the age of sixteen years he was apprenticed to a coachmaker in New London. Soon after, Samuel L. Waldo came there and painted several portraits, the sight of which fascinated young Jewett so much that he offered to grind the colors for Mr. Waldo that he might be near and see him at his work, and later followed him to New York, and became his assistant, and very many portraits bear the impress of the two men who worked together in perfect harmony for eighteen consecutive years.

242. PORTRAIT OF REV. GARDINER SPRING, DD. 1832.

Born, 1785 ; died, 1873. Pastor of the Old Brick Presbyterian Church, N. Y., 1810-1873.

Presented by Mr. S. P. Avery, 1896. On panel, 25 x 32 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Jouett, Matthew Harris.

Born in Mercer County, Ky., April 22, 1790 ; died, Lexington, Ky., August 10, 1827. Portrait painter; educated a lawyer; served in the war of 1812, and at its close opened a studio in Lexington. In 1816, studied six months in Boston under Gilbert Stuart. He painted during his short career more than 300 portraits, including among his sitters many distinguished persons. His full-length portrait of Lafayette is in the Capitol at Frankfort, and a bust portrait of this illustrious man is owned by Mrs. Pauline Rhodes, Richmond, Ky.

243. PORTRAIT OF JOHN GRIMES. 1812.

All that is known of the subject of this picture is that, when a boy, he appeared in the city of Lexington, Ky., in search of employment, found it in a paint store, where he met Jouett, who first employed him to grind his colors, and subsequently took him into his studio and taught him to paint. About 1826, he went to Nashville, and opened a studio, painting many of the best citizens of that place, but went back to Lexington to die, in 1837.

Presented by Mrs. Sarah Bell Menefee, daughter of M. H. Jouett, Louisville, Ky., 1895. On panel, 21 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 25.

Doughty, Thomas.

Born at Philadelphia, 1793; died, 1856. Spent his youth in mercantile pursuits, painting in his leisure moments. He finally adopted art as a profession about 1820, painting at London, Paris, and in the United States.

Leutze, Emanuel.

Born at Gmünd, Württemberg, May 24, 1816. Died at Washington, July 18, 1868. History painter. Taken to America as a child, by his parents, who settled in Philadelphia, where he was first instructed by John A. Smith; went in 1841 to Düsseldorf, and studied under Lessing; also studied in Munich, Venice, and Rome; visited America in 1851, and settled there permanently in 1859, living alternately in New York and Washington. Elected N.A. in 1860. He was an indefatigable worker. Among the most important of his works are: "Washington Crossing the Delaware," "Defeat of General Braddock," "John Knox and Mary Stuart" (1845), "Maid of Saragossa," "Venetian Masqueraders" (1860), "Lafayette in Prison at Olmutz visited by his Relatives," "The Iconoclast," "Landing of the Norsemen in America," "The Court of Queen Elizabeth," "The Flight of the Puritans," "Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn."

248. WASHINGTON CROSSING THE DELAWARE.

"December 25, 1776, the Commander-in-chief's headquarters were at Newtown, a little village on a small branch of the Neshaming, two miles northeast from Bristol. There were about 1,500 Hessians and a troop of British light horse at Trenton; these Washington determined to surprise. The posts at Mount Holly, Burlington, Black Horse, and Bordentown were to be attacked, at the same time, by the Pennsylvania militia under Generals Cadwallader and Ewing, the former to cross near Bristol, the latter below Trenton Falls; while Washington leading the main body of the Continental troops (in all about 2,400 men, and twenty pieces of artillery) was to march down upon the enemy at Trenton. Christmas night was selected by Washington for the execution of his enterprise. The cold weather of the twenty-four hours preceding put serious obstacles in the way. The river was so full of floating ice that at first it was doubtful whether a crossing could be effected at all. A storm of sleet and snow had just commenced, and the night became excessively dark and dreary. The perilous voyage began early in the evening in boats and bateaux, but it was nearly four in the morning before the little army was mustered on the Jersey shore. The victory of the Americans at Trenton was complete."

Presented by Mr. John S. Kennedy, 1897. Signed and dated, 1851.

On canvas, 21 ft. x 12 ft. 3 in.

Vanderlyn, John.

Born at Kingston, Ulster County, New York, 1776; died there, Sept. 23, 1852. Pupil of Gilbert Stuart, friend and protégé of Aaron Burr, whose portrait he painted. Studied in 1796-1801 in Paris, where he painted from 1803 to 1815. Medal at Paris, 1808, for his "Marius Among the Ruins at Carthage." "Ariadne in Naxos" is a beautiful ideal and is now in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Washington, Monroe, Madison, Calhoun, Clinton, Zachary Taylor, and many other distinguished men, sat to him for their portraits. But he made unfortunate ventures late in life; poverty and discouragement oppressed him, and in the autumn of 1852 he went to his birthplace, so poor that he begged a shilling with which to transport his baggage to the town. Upon reaching the hotel his only request was for a bed, and to be left alone, and there the next morning he was found dead.

GALLERY 5.

Hovenden, Thomas.

Born at Dunmanway, County Cork, Ireland, December 28, 1840; died, 1895. Studied in the Cork School of Design. Came to New York in 1863, and entered the school of the N. A. D. In 1874 went to Paris, where he studied under Cabanel, returning to the United States in 1880. Elected A.N.A. 1881; N.A. in 1882. He was also a member of the Philadelphia Society of Artists, American Water Color, American Artists' Societies, and the Artists' Fund. Mr. Hovenden was run over and instantly killed by a railway train while he was endeavoring to save a child, at the town of Plymouth Meeting, Pa., where he lived.

254. LAST MOMENTS OF JOHN BROWN.

A distinguished champion of liberty; born at Torrington, Conn., in May, 1800. His father removed to Ohio in 1805. From the age of fifteen to twenty he worked at the trade of tanner and currier. According to Redpath, he conceived in 1839 the idea of becoming a liberator of the Southern slaves. He was a devout member of the Congregational Church, and a man of strict moral character, unflinching courage, and intense earnestness. He emigrated to Kansas in 1855, where he took an active part in the contest with the pro-slavery party. In August, 1856, he gained some advantages at Ossawatimie over a band of Missourians who had invaded Kansas, and were ten times more numerous than his own company. In May, 1859, he called a secret convention of the friends of freedom, which met at Chatham, in Canada, organized an invasion of Virginia for the purpose of liberating the slaves, and adopted a constitution. In the following July he rented a farm house about six miles from Harper's Ferry, and collected there a supply of pikes, guns, etc. On the night of October 16, 1859, aided by about twenty men, he surprised Harper's Ferry, seized the arsenal and armory, and took over forty prisoners. About noon on the 17th, the party of Brown was attacked by the Virginia militia. After two of his sons and nearly all of his men had been killed, and he himself had been wounded in several places, he was captured. "Enemies and friends," says Redpath, "were equally amazed at the carriage and sayings of the wounded warrior." He was tried in November, and hung at Charleston, Virginia, on the 2d of December, 1859. He met his death with serene composure. He was twice married, and had twenty children.

Cole, Thomas.

Born at Bolton le Moor, England, February 1, 1801; died near Catskill, N. Y., February 11, 1848. Landscape painter. In 1819 his father emigrated to America and settled in Ohio, where Thomas first learned the rudiments of his art from a portrait painter named Stein. After studying nature under great difficulties, he went in 1825 to New York, and was first brought into notice by his views on the Hudson. He made several visits to England, France, and Italy, but passed the greater portion of his professional life in New York. Exhibited at Royal Academy, London, "View in New Hampshire," "Tomb of General Brock" (1830), and "View in United States" (1831). Two he had heard me make my complaint, he said, 'Peace be to thee'; * * * * and he put a beautiful crown upon my head. Then he took me by the hand, and said, 'Mercy, come after me.' So he went up, and I followed, till we came to a golden Gate. West, Benjamin.

Born at Springfield, Penn., October 10, 1738; died in London, March 11, 1820. He began to draw when seven years old, and took his first lessons in preparing colors from Cherokee Indians. After a little instruction from a painter named Williams, he set up, when eighteen years old, in Philadelphia, as a portrait painter; thence removed to New York, and in 1760 went to Italy, where he remained until 1763, when he settled in London. His pictures of "Agrippina bringing home the ashes of Germanicus," painted for the Archbishop of York, and the "Departure of Regulus," bought by George III, won him Royal patronage and favor, which he long enjoyed. From 1769 to 1801, during which time he received all orders from the King, who made him his historical painter, 1772, West gained £34,187. The seven pictures illustrating revealed religion, which he painted for the Oratory at Windsor, brought him in £20,705, and his many portraits of members of the Royal family were highly remunerative. On the death of Sir Joshua Reynolds, 1792, West succeeded him as President of the Royal Academy, of which he had been one of the founders in 1768, and with the exception of a few months, held that office until his death, in 1820.

Pratt, Matthew.

Born at Philadelphia, September 23, 1734; died in his native city, January 6, 1805. His first instructor in art was his maternal uncle, James Claypoole, whose works unfortunately cannot be identified; that he possessed no inconsiderable skill and knowledge in his profession is attested by the thorough grounding of his pupil. Pratt, after doing considerable work in Philadelphia, sailed for London, in June, 1764; accompanying Miss Shewell (whose uncle had married Pratt's aunt), and on September 2, 1764, he gave her in marriage to the future President of the Royal Academy. After a residence of two years and a half with West, in London, whose first American pupil he was, he spent eighteen months in Bristol, and shortly after returned to Philadelphia, where he set up his easel in the spring of 1768. In 1770, he made a brief visit to Ireland, and painted several important pictures, among which was a whole length portrait of Archdeacon Isaac Mann, in his robes, which was exhibited in Dublin at the Irish Academy. He passed a portion of the year 1772 in New York, during which time he painted a full-length portrait of Cadwalader Colden for the Chamber of Commerce, which is still in possession of that body. About the same period he painted the portraits of several members of the Walton family. His portrait of West and wife are in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, and that city also boasts of the earliest authenticated likeness of the great American philosopher, Franklin, which is his work.

265. THE AMERICAN SCHOOL.

This interesting picture represents West's painting room in London. To the left, West, with hat on, stands by Pratt, correcting a drawing. At the right of the painting, with palette and brushes in hand, is another student who has turned to listen to the words of the master. In the centre are two younger students, one of whom is supposed to be Abraham Delanoy, of New York, who was studying with West at that time, and whose portrait by West was recently in the possession of the De Peyster family. The picture was exhibited by Pratt, at the Old Spring Gardens, in London, in 1766, under the title still preserved.

This picture shows Pratt to have been an artist of no ordinary ability, as it is a remarkable composition to have been executed at so early a day by an American artist, and its color, scheme, and detail are worthy of special notice.

269. CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS AT THE COURT OF FERDINAND THE CATHOLIC AND ISABELLA OF CASTILE.

The moment chosen in the painting is the beginning of American history. After his repulse by other European States, Columbus has resorted for assistance to the Court of Spain. The Spanish Treasury has been exhausted in the Moorish wars, and Isabella offers her jewels to defray the expenses of the expedition. The contract between Ferdinand and Columbus is about to be signed, and the discovery of the New World is assured. (April 17th, 1492.)

Newton, Gilbert Stuart.

Born at Halifax, Nova Scotia, September 2, 1795; died, Chelsea, England, August 5, 1835. Son of a royalist officer driven from Boston when Washington occupied it. On the death of his father, his mother returned (1803) to Boston, where he had some instruction from his uncle, Gilbert Stuart. In 1817 he went to Italy and to Paris, where he met Charles Robert Leslie, and returning with him to London, became a student at the Royal Academy, and was soon recognized as an agreeable subject painter. Elected an A.R.A. in 1828, and R.A. in 1832, in which year he revisited America and married. On his return his mind became so seriously affected that he had to be taken to a private asylum at Chelsea, where he died.

284. SUSANNAH AND THE ELDERS.

On the left, in a crouching attitude, is seen the startled Susannah, about whose figure is draped a fur-trimmed mantle. On the right the two Elders; one in the act of stepping over a balustrade, the other reaching eagerly forward grasps the branch of a small tree, from which is suspended a black gown. A pet spaniel bounding up the steps sounds the note of alarm. Every object in the picture is finished with exquisite care, and the whole surface is glowing with color.

This admirable little picture belongs to the mature period of the great master. It is of the most perfect development of his art, and entirely by his own hand. The Susannah is a portrait of his second wife, Helen Fourment, who was so frequently his model. As Rubens married her in 1630, and died in 1640, there can be no doubt that the picture was painted some time during those ten years.

Rubens painted this subject of Susannah and the Elders many times. Five examples are described by Smith, and some of them have been engraved. The present work is, however, a different composition from any of these, and does not seem to have been engraved or reproduced in any other way.

Two pictures of this same subject are mentioned, but not in any way described, in the inventory of Rubens' works of art, which remained on his hands until his death; and it may reasonably be surmised, since this picture contained a portrait of his wife, that it was one of those specially retained by the artist himself.

Hogarth, William.

Born at London, 1697; died there, 1764. He was apprenticed at an early age to a silver plate engraver, and when twenty-three years old set up in business on his own account. Amongst other works of the kind he engraved twelve plates for Butler's "Hudibras." He entered the school of Sir James Thornhill, Serjeant-painter to the king, whose daughter he married clandestinely in 1729. The work which first established his fame was the series of the "Harlot's Progress," which was immediately followed by the "Rake's Progress," now in the Soane Museum. These works are similar in scope and design to the "Marriage à la Mode" series purchased from the Angerstein collection by the National Gallery, London, 1824. The engravings made by Hogarth from these pictures brought him both money and fame.

285. MISS RICH BUILDING A HOUSE OF CARDS.

She is dressed in white, with a white cap upon her head, and seated at a table building a house of cards. From the collection of C. H. Hawkins. Engraved in 1786, by M. Knight.

On canvas, $24\frac{1}{2} \times 29\frac{1}{4}$.

Hoogstraaten, Samuel van.

Born at Dort, 1627; died there, 1678. He was a pupil of his father, Theodore van Hoogstraaten, and afterwards of Rembrandt, at Amsterdam. He occasionally painted landscapes and still-life, but his greatest successes were in portraits, which he at first executed in the dark and vigorous style of Rembrandt, but afterwards changed to a more clear and agreeable manner, much to the advantage of his immediate popularity, but not of his permanent fame.

286. PORTRAITS OF A GENTLEMAN AND LADY.

Each about thirty-five years of age, seated at a table covered with red tapestry. The man, wearing a soft ruff and black habit, is turned to the left, looking to the front, his left arm thrown over the back of his chair. The right hand resting on the table holds a string of pearls; head uncovered, hair light brown, with close cut beard. The lady is seen in front view, wearing a close white linen cap, a stiff ruff, cuffs, and brown dress; her hands hold an open book which rests upon the table. Purchased from M. Sedelmeyer, Paris.

Signed and dated, 1642.

Moroni, Giovanni Battista.

Born at Bondo, near Albino, Province of Bergamo, 1525; died at Brescia, 1578. Pupil of Moretto. Giovanni Battista Moroni was a painter without honor in his own country, and when the people from Bergamo came to Titian to be painted, he used to refer them to their own countryman. No better face painter, he would tell them, existed. Moroni was not a poet in the true sense of the word, but a consummate painter. Yet, now and then, he surpassed himself and pierced the surface till he reached the soul of the sitter.

288. PORTRAIT OF A MAN.

Half length, nearly front view, turned a little to the right; he is gloved and clad in a fur-trimmed coat, holding in his left hand an open letter.

On canvas, 29 x 37 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Holbein, Hans (the Younger).

Born at Augsburg, 1497; died at London, 1543.

A drawing of the year 1509 is the earliest known work of this painter. He was instructed by his father. About 1516 he removed to Basle. The works which have been ascribed to him in that city are innumerable. In 1517 he was called to Lucerne to decorate a house, which was still in existence in 1824; in 1519 he entered the Guild of Painters at Basle, and formed his friendship with Boniface Amerbach. Holbein's portrait of this friend is one of his very best; the "Fountain of Life," now at Lisbon, in the palace of the King of Portugal, was also painted this year. In 1521 he decorated the Rath House or Town Hall. It was at this time that he painted a portrait of Erasmus; a life-size picture of "Christ lying in the Tomb," and "Holbein's wife and children," representing Franz, the son of the widow Schmid, whom he married, and his own son Philip. The mother is a coarse-looking, unattractive woman. It is said that Holbein was driven from Basle by his wife's temper, but that he contributed to her support at all times.

His "Madonna," at Darmstadt (the better known copy of which is at Dresden), is one of the great religious pictures of the world. Soon after its completion Holbein went to England, bearing a letter of introduction from Erasmus to Sir Thomas More, who at once received him with kindness. 1527 was the year in which Henry VIII fell in love with Anne Boleyn. This was the first year of Holbein's occupation in England, but he does not appear to have entered the King's service until after 1530. In the meantime he painted Sir Thomas More's family and friends, among them, Archbishop Warham and Sir Henry Gilford, both fine and important pictures. In 1528 he painted Sir Thomas and John Godsalue, on the same panel, now at Dresden; and the astronomer, Kratzer, now in the Louvre. Holbein returned to Basle in 1530, and completed the frescos in the Town House. This being done, he returned to England. The superb portrait of George Gyzen, at Berlin, was painted in 1532. After 1533 Holbein rarely dated his pictures, and there is no authentic portrait by him of Anne Boleyn, or her daughter, the Princess Elizabeth, although Holbein painted many portraits of the Royal family.

GALLERY 6.

289. PORTRAIT OF ARCHBISHOP CRANMER.

Wearing a long forked beard, clad in a black furred gown, with a black cap on his head, he is standing upright behind a table covered with green cloth, on which are placed an hour glass, a book, and a sheet of paper, on which is inscribed in finely formed characters the Latin version of the fifth chapter of 2d Corinthians. On the seal is a coat-of-arms, with a Bishop's or Archbishop's crozier; behind it, the armorial bearings, although somewhat indistinct from the small size of the seal, are obviously those of Cranmer, impaling the Episcopal Arms of the See of Canterbury. The date, 1539, is painted in the left-hand lower corner of the picture. From the collection of Mr. Jesse of Bathofarn Park, Ruthin, North Wales.

Dated, 1539.

290. PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

Standing three-quarters to the left, front view, wearing a rich embroidered dress, a ruff and cuffs. Her hair is dressed with pearls, and she has a triple row of pearls over her shoulders falling in a loop on her breast; her right hand is on the arm of a red chair, the left, falling naturally, holds a black feather fan attached by a gold chain to her girdle; rings are on the thumb of the right hand and on the forefinger of the left hand; a red curtain above. Three-quarters length. Purchased in London in 1888. Exhibited by P. P. Roupell, at the Royal Academy in 1875.

Vinci, Leonardo da.

Born at Vinci, Val d'Arno, near Florence, in 1452; died at the Château de Clot, or Cloux, near Ambroise, May 2, 1519. Florentine School, pupil of Andrea del Verrocchio, with whom he was associated as late as 1476. The bright angel which he painted in his master's picture of the "Baptism of Christ," Florence Academy, and the Medusa Head at Uffizi attributed to him, are the only extant works of the earlier period of his life, which closed in 1483. Lodovico Sforza, Duke of Milan, appointed him court painter, director of the newly founded Academy of Arts, general organizer of fêtes in which art played a conspicuous part, and manager of all enterprises in which a knowledge of hydraulics, engineering, and general science was necessary. For the Duke he executed the famous wall painting of the "Last Supper" (1495-98), in S. M. delle Grazie, and modelled an equestrian statue, never cast, of his father, Francesco Sforza. When Lodovico was overthrown by the French (1499), and sent to France to die in a dungeon at the Castle of Loches, Leonardo returned to Florence, thence to Venice, and (in 1502) he visited the fortresses of the principal cities of the Romagna as military engineer to Cæsar Borgia. Between 1503 and 1505 he produced the famous Cartoon of the Battle of the Standard, from which he was to have painted a fresco in the great hall of the Palazzo Vecchio, at Florence. In October, 1507, Leonardo once more established himself in Milan, until 1514, when he accompanied Giuliano de' Medici to Rome to assist at the Coronation of Leo X. In 1516 he went to France, at the invitation of Francis I, and spent the last three years of his life in the King's service.

291. PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

Half-length, full-faced portrait of a young lady, with a wreath of foliage round her head, and holding in her hands a salver of fruit. She has long, flowing golden hair, and is attired in a rich dress of Italian, fifteenth century fashion.

There can be little doubt that this most admirable and unique picture should be referred to Leonardo's early period; i.e., that it was executed at Florence before his removal to Milan, consequently anterior to 1483-85. It was formerly in the possession of Lord de Ros, and afterward in that of Lord St. Leonard, at Boyle Farm, Thames Ditton, near London; Boyle Farm, with its furniture and collections complete, having been purchased by the latter from Lord de Ros about 1830-40.

On panel, octagon, $18\frac{3}{4} \times 17\frac{3}{4}$.

Ruisdaël (Ruysdaël), Jacob Van.

Born at Haarlem, about 1625 (?); died there, 1682. Son and pupil of Izack Van Ruisdaël; probably also pupil of his uncle Salomon Van Ruisdaël. Became the greatest landscape painter of the Dutch School.

In 1648 he joined the Guild of St. Luke, at Haarlem, and in 1659 obtained the rights of citizenship at Amsterdam. He was little appreciated by his contemporaries, and gained but a scant maintenance by his art. The figures introduced in his landscapes are by Berchem, Adrian Van de Velde, Wouwerman, Lingelbach, Vermeer, and Eglin Van der Neer. Ruisdaël was an admirable etcher.

293. LANDSCAPE.

A pool surrounded by a rocky margin, from which the water has found a channel, through which it passes away to the left; in the centre, on the bank of the pool, are two men driving sheep; on the right and left are groups of trees, and above, a bright sky with fleecy clouds. Purchased from M. Sedelmeyer in 1886.

It was painted for, and belonged to, the Van Male family up to 1878, from whom it passed into the possession of Mr. J. L. Menke, of Antwerp, and was purchased from Mr. Menke by Mr. Henry G. the dull, gray clouds are reflected in the waters of the canal, and hang over the distant landscape, shadowing almost to obscurity the long line of mills that border the artificial stream. But the old red mill, which stands in the foreground, with its tiled roof, massive walls, and arched gateway, the moving figures, the quay, and the boats which drift upon the waters of the canal, dwell, like Rembrandt himself, in a perpetual golden glow, despite the heavy atmosphere of the low lands of Holland. This is a rare and extraordinary work. "The old mill, in which Rembrandt was born," is inscribed upon the back of this picture.

Rembrandt Van Ryn.

Born at Leyden, 1607; died at Amsterdam, 1669.

He was son of Harman Gerritsoon, a prosperous miller of Leyden. Having studied with Van Swaenburgh and Pieter Lastman, he established himself in 1630 at Amsterdam, and soon after married Saskia van Ulenburg. He was successful, but improvident, and had frequent struggles with the bailiff. Late in life he married a second wife, Hendrickie Stoffels, who had been a servant in his family. His fame as an etcher almost equals his fame as a painter. For strength, truth, handling, and chiaroscuro, he has never been surpassed.

297. PORTRAIT OF A MAN.

He is seen standing, wearing a large black hat, which casts a deep shadow over the upper portion of his countenance, from which his melancholy eyes look at the spectator with an intense dreamy expression. A rich golden brown gaberdine covers his figure, which has but little relief from a background of a similar tone.

GALLERY 6.

This picture came from the collection formed by Sir William Knighton, Bart., physician to King George IV.

Sir William Knighton, besides being a very eminent medical man, was an accomplished amateur artist. He was a personal friend of George IV, whilst Prince Regent, and his principal adviser in the formation of the collection of Dutch pictures at Buckingham Palace, now the property of the Crown.

His own collection was kept intact until within a few years, when it was sold at the death of his son, who left no successor; the baronetcy becoming extinct.

Signed and dated, 1664.

On canvas, $24\frac{3}{8} \times 27\frac{3}{8}$.

Rembrandt Van Ryn. See No. 297.

298. PORTRAIT OF A MAN.

He is about 36 years of age, the body turned three-quarters to the right, face front; his long black hair falling on both sides of his wide, flat linen collar, which is seen in shadow on the left with the corner turned up; he wears a hat with wide brim and high crown; his left hand with embroidered cuff is faintly seen thrust in a fold of his black habit. Painted, according to Dr. Bode, about 1640. Purchased from the Marquis of Lansdowne in 1883. Bust. Life size.

Signed.

On canvas, $24\frac{1}{2} \times 30\frac{1}{2}$.

Rembrandt Van Ryn. See No. 297.

299. THE ADORATION OF THE SHEPHERDS.

A picture similar to that in the National Gallery in London, with some differences. Purchased in London in 1887.

Signed and dated, 1641.

On panel, $20\frac{7}{8} \times 24\frac{3}{8}$.

Sorg (Zorg), Hendrik Maertensz.

Born at Rotterdam, 1611; died there, 1669 or 1670. Real name, Hendrik Maertensz Rokes. Genre painter; pupil of William Buiteweg; formed himself after the works of Brouwer, though more dull and heavy in color. He represented peasant scenes, conversations, and kitchen interiors, with genuine feeling for nature, good drawing, and careful execution.

301. A GIRL WITH A CAT.

Evidently a portrait. She is about 10 years of age, and is seen standing, her figure relieved against the trunks of a group of trees which serve for background. She is clad in a single white garment or chemise, her arms and legs half bare, her feet shod with sandals; a red mantle lies on the ground at her left; her left hand is raised to her head; a large cat is on her right, and a bit of sky above. She seems to be about to take a bath. Full length. Purchased in 1887, from the Executors of Sir Francis Bolton.

On canvas, 46 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 58 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Turner, Joseph Mallord William.

Born in Maiden Lane, Covent Garden, London, 1775; died, 1851. He was the son of a barber, and his father intended him for his own profession. Of his earliest sketches, made in pencil and india ink when he was a boy, a large proportion consists of careful studies of stranded boats, and different parts of old Dutch shipping. He hired himself out every evening to wash in skies in india ink in other people's drawings, at half a crown a night, getting his supper into the bargain. It was in water color that Turner first painted. By 1789 he began to paint in oils, and this great genius, who now holds the first place in English landscape art, entered the Royal Academy as a student, at the age of thirteen, and under the prevailing influence of the day studied the works of Claude Lorrain, the Poussins, Salvator Rosa, and other classical painters. A close observer and diligent student, nature early revealed to his mind an illimitable source of glorious truths, which left no room for influences, methods, or conceits, other than those which his unerring accuracy of perception led him to formulate for the perfect rendering of material loveliness with unrivaled precision. Ruskin says: "The great distinctive passion of Turner's nature—that which separates him from all other modern landscape painters—is his sympathy with sorrow, deepened by his continual sense of the power of death. Colossal in power, he was also tender and delicate in harmony of tint and subtlety of drawing. He had a perfect grasp of English scenery, and shrank from no labor in expressing details. His Yorkshire drawings are peculiarly rich and varied in composition, the rock and hill forms being marvelously accurate, while his skies and effects of mist are exquisitely rendered. Glorious in conception—unfathomable in knowledge—solitary in power—with the elements waiting upon his will, and the night and morning obedient to his call, sent as a prophet of God to reveal to men the mysteries of a universe ; standing like the great angel of the Apocalypse, clothed with a cloud, and with a rainbow upon his head, and with the sun and stars given into his hand."

GALLERY 6.

302. SALTASH.

The river Tamar in the foreground, with a barge at a dock on the left, and on the right a boat half drawn on shore. A large building extends across the canvas bearing the sign "Beer House"; on the wall at the right is scrawled, "England expects every man to do his duty." Through a square opening or gateway in the building are seen a street, market, etc. The scene is enlivened by groups of men, women, sailors, and horses. Painted about 1812-14. Purchased in 1851 by John Miller, of Liverpool, for 300 guineas. A letter from John Ruskin, dated November 22, 1852, says: "I once bid up to £300 for it, but it went higher, and I had no more to give." Mr. Miller exhibited it at Manchester in 1857, and at his sale in 1858 it was bought in at £430, by his daughter, who exhibited it in 1885, at the Royal Academy. Purchased in 1886.

303. PORTRAIT OF LADY CAREW (Daughter of Lord Carew).

Bust ; life size. The head turned to her left. She is dressed in a white linen robe, open at the neck. Round her waist is a silk sash of pale blue. The background is sky, with light, silvery-gray clouds.

On canvas, 24¾ x 29.

Molyn, Pieter de (the Elder).

Born at London before 1600; died at Haarlem, March 23, 1661. Dutch School. Landscape painter. Entered Haarlem Guild in 1616, dean in 1633. Painted flat and hilly landscapes, with great truth; coloring warm and forcible; skies of great transparency. He also painted military scenes.

A good picture by him of two cottages with rich woods, is in the Berlin Museum.

305. PORTRAIT OF A MAN.

Half length, standing; three-quarters to the right; hair light brown; pointed beard. He wears a black dress with a ruff; the right hand, falling naturally, holds his gloves; the left rests on the back of a chair near which he stands. This picture belonged to Lord Methuen, and is mentioned in The English Connoisseur, London, 1766, I, 36. Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1877. Purchased from Lord Methuen in 1886. Half length. On canvas, 28¼ x 41.

Rubens, Peter Paul. See No. 94.

306. PYRAMUS AND THISBE.

Thisbe, discovering her lover lying dead, attempts to take her own life by falling on a sword. Cupid hastens away, horrified at the sight. Above are three Loves in the branches of a tree; on the left is a monument, with a sculptured lion on a pedestal. Purchased through Eugene Benson, from a private collection, near Venice.

On canvas, 38½ x 50½.

Leyden, Lucas van.

Born at Leyden in 1494; died there, 1533. He was remarkably precocious, having etched plates from his own designs at the age of 8 or 9 years; at 12 to 14 he produced works that are still highly esteemed. A warm friendship existed between him and Albert Dürer, which was never interrupted by professional jealousy. He painted in oil, distemper, and on glass, succeeding equally well in historical subjects, landscape, and portraits. His engravings on copper gave him a rank besides his great contemporaries, Dürer and Marc Antonio.

307. CHRIST PRESENTED TO THE PEOPLE.

In a public square of the city of Jerusalem is a raised scaffold or platform, on which the Saviour is seen in a group of six persons, two of whom draw aside the purple robe and show Him to the people. In the foreground, groups of persons in richly colored costumes fill the street below, witnessing and commenting on the scene. The windows of the houses which surround the square are filled with spectators. It was formerly in the possession of Baron Carondelet, Spanish Governor of the province of Louisiana, and was purchased from a descendant of the family. It would seem from an ancient document accompanying the picture that it was from the sale of the Prince de Conti, and that it is the original of the picture in the Belvedere Gallery, Vienna, which in the old catalogues was attributed to this artist, and in the more recent catalogues is called a Copy. There is an old engraving of this picture by Lucas van Leyden himself, dated 1510.

On canvas, 17 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 10 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Crome, John (called Old Crome).

Born at Norwich, 1769; died there, 1821. He began life as a doctor's boy, and afterwards was apprenticed to a coach-painter. He took to landscape-painting without having had any professional training, and settled at Norwich, where in 1805 he founded the Norwich Society of Artists. He was never in London except on hasty visits, spending his entire life in his native town. He had a son and a brother, both artists.

308. HAUTHBOIS COMMON.

In the centre is a clump of trees, through which a cart is approaching, drawn by two horses, driven by a peasant; among the trees are seen a cottage and enclosure; on the left, a meadow and low country; and in the centre, bright clouds, with darker ones on each side; two donkeys stand beneath the trees. From the Sherington, Ellison, and Albert Levy collections. Exhibited at the International Exhibition, London, 1862, by Mrs. Ellison. Purchased from M. Sedelmeyer, in 1888.

On panel, 34 x 21 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Constable, John, R.A.

Born at East Bernholt, in 1776; died at London, 1837. His style was very broad and powerful, and his landscapes are possessed of a noble quality which reveals the beauty of English cultivated scenery in the most charming manner, and his landscapes, in which mills, weirs, and dykes are prominent features, often glisten with the early morning dew, or, wet with rain, sparkle in the sunlight bursting through the storm clouds in the sky. He was both vigorous and realistic; strong in his originality, yet refined and cultivated in his mind. His pictures possess a quality which fill a place unoccupied by any other English landscape painter, and they have done much to form the style of the modern French landscape school.

309. A LOCK ON THE STOUR.

An old timber lock, through which a boat is passing from the higher to the lower level, occupies the middle foreground of the picture. In the bow of the boat one man is tugging at a rope, and two other men are engaged opening the gate of the lock; on the left the country is flat, bounded by low hills which encircle the church whose square tower marks the place where the village stands. Cumulous clouds fill the sky, and a group of old oaks with their massive foliage shadow the canal which passes underneath their branches.

Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1824, and sold on the first day of the exhibition for £157 10s. It is engraved in Constable's Works, also on wood in Brock-Arnold, Life of Constable, p. 78. This picture was in the possession of Lucas, who engraved the 22 prints in Various Subjects of Landscape . . . by John Constable, London, in 1833, and was purchased from Alfred Lucas, brother of the engraver.

Dyck, Sir Anthony van. See No. 15.

310. JAMES STUART, DUKE OF RICHMOND AND LENOX.

He is represented standing in an easy attitude, with the left hand resting on his hip, and the right hand on the upturned head of a large greyhound. The figure is three-quarters to the left, with face turned to the front; his long blond hair falls in curls over his sloping shoulders, and the large pointed lace collar which is about his neck, partially conceals a broad blue ribbon, from which is suspended a gold locket. The dress is of rich figured black silk, with a large silver star embroidered upon the left sleeve. The stockings are white and the shoes, dark, with large ornamental rosettes. Engraved, 1773, in mezzotint, by R. Earlom, and in line by Houbraken.

Purchased, in 1886, from Lord Methuen. Smith, Cat. Rai., V, No. 594. Mentioned in The English Connoisseur, London, 1766, I, 20, as belonging to Paul Methuen.

On canvas, 48¾ x 83¾.

Constable, John, R.A. See No. 309.

311. THE VALLEY FARM.

Situated on the bank of the Stour, and known as "Willy Lott's House." The house occupies the centre of the picture and is illumined only by a glint of light which penetrates the group of heavy, dark oak trees which overshadow the whole place. Some cows have wandered down into the stream, and two boats are there containing figures. At the left are some rocks and heavy timbers with brush, which border the stream and lead on to a hill in the middle distance. The sky is filled with silvery-gray clouds. "Flatford Mill," the property of the painter's father in East Bergholt, Suffolk, was near this place.

Constable painted this subject several times. The one in the National Gallery in London was in the Vernon collection, and was engraved by J. C. Bentley.

312. MARIANA OF AUSTRIA, QUEEN OF SPAIN.

Second wife of Philip IV. She had been betrothed to Don Baltasar Carlos, son of Philip IV, whose portrait is described (see No. 307); but after the death of the son she married his father, who was also her uncle. She is about 24 years of age, and is seen nearly in front, with an enormous headdress composed of her own hair, arranged in ringlets, the ends of which are tied with red ribbon; over the ringlets on her left falls a red and white plume; her dress is court mourning, consisting of black silk, with silver ornaments arranged in stripes, the skirts distended by enormous hoops; her right hand is on the back of a chair. A similar portrait, but full length, is in the Belvedere Gallery at Vienna. Formerly in the Duncan collection. Purchased through Martin Colnaghi, London. On canvas, $38\frac{1}{2} \times 29\frac{1}{4}$.

Masaccio, Tommaso Guidi.

Born at Castel San Giovanni, 1402; died at Rome in 1428 or '29. He is supposed to have been the pupil of Masolino de Panicale, at Florence, and to have assisted that master in his works. He went to Rome, where he died in about his 27th year.

313. A MAN AND WOMAN AT A CASEMENT.

The woman is in the corner of a room before a window, at which the face of a man is seen looking in; her dress consists of a crimson velvet bodice with brown sleeves, and a quaint headdress of crimson stuffs; her hands are clasped before her body; both faces are in profile. The coat-of-arms is that of Portinari, founder of the Hospital at Florence. Purchased in Florence about 1829 by Thomas J. Sanford, who bequeathed his fine collection of Italian pictures to Lord Methuen. Purchased in 1883 from Lord Methuen.

On panel, $16\frac{1}{2} \times 24\frac{3}{4}$.

Leyden, Lucas van. See No. 307.

314. JOSEPH'S COAT.

This is one of a series of tempera paintings on linen, illustrating the history of Joseph, which was seen by Van Mander in a house at Delft, as is specially recorded by him in his life of the Dutch Master ('Het Leven der Schilders, etc.). He there notes the injury to the set of decorative canvases as being caused by the damp atmosphere of Holland. This picture is of peculiar interest, as being one of the very few among his paintings that are authenticated by documentary evidence.

"And he knew it, and said, It is my son's coat; an evil beast hath devoured him: Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces."

This picture belonged in 1766 to Lord Methuen, and in 1886 passed from Lord Methuen's collection at Corsham, into that of Mr. Marquand, of New York. Mentioned in The English Connoisseur, London, 1766, I, 36.

On linen, $56\frac{1}{4} \times 67\frac{1}{4}$.

Vermeer (Van der Meer van Delft), Johannes.

Born at Delft, 1632; died there, 1675. Portrait, genre, landscape, and still-life painter. Pupil of Karel Fabritius, and further developed under the influence of Rembrandt. Master of the Guild of Delft in 1653, and was its dean in 1662, '63, and 1670, '71. One of the greatest colorists, excelling in admirable light effects.

315. A YOUNG WOMAN OPENING A CASEMENT.

A white kerchief covers her head, falling on her shoulders; her left hand holds a small pitcher, which stands in a basin on a table at her left; a map hangs on the wall behind. Purchased, in 1887, from M. Pillet, Paris, who had it from an Irish nobleman.

On canvas, $15\frac{3}{8} \times 17\frac{1}{2}$.

Teniers, David (the Younger). See No. 1.

316. LANDSCAPE.

On the right, near the edge of a wood, two men stand on a rocky ledge. One wears a blue coat; the other, a brown dress and a red cap, and leans on a stick; a church spire is seen above the trees in the distance on the left; the sky is cloudy. Formerly owned by E. Smith, Esq., of Canterbury. Exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1888, by J. Humphrey Ward, Esq.

On panel, $8\frac{7}{8} \times 6\frac{3}{4}$.

Cuyp (Kuyp), Albert (Aelbert).

Born at Dordrecht, 1606; died there, 1691. This highly gifted painter was from early infancy associated with, and attracted by, the beauties of graphic imitation. His father, Jacob Gerritz Cuyp, an artist of no inconsiderable talent both in portraiture and landscape, was one of the founders of the Academy of Painting at Dort, and it was from him that Albert received his first instructions, and in his early works may be traced the style of his father. England appreciated and purchased his works long before his own countrymen recognized his ability.

With short gray hair, beard, and mustache, seated three-quarters right, at a table, writing. He wears a narrow ruff, with a fur tippet crossing his breast and falling over his knees on the left; his gloves in his left hand, and writing implements are on the table. Purchased from the Brinley family, Philadelphia. Kneepiece.

On panel, $29\frac{1}{2} \times 41\frac{1}{4}$.

Eyck, Jan van.

Born at Maaseyck about 1390; died at Bruges, 1440. The brothers Hubert and Jan van Eyck are distinguished as being the inventors of Oil Painting. The chief credit is usually given to Jan, but probably Hubert has the better claim. Jan was by 24 years the younger of the two. They resided chiefly at Ghent and Bruges.

319. VIRGIN AND CHILD.

The Virgin, dressed in a long scarlet robe, stands in a niche of richly sculptured gothic architecture, looking tenderly down upon the Child which she holds against her breast. On the border of the canopy above her head is inscribed, "Domus Dei est et porta cœli;" beneath is "Ipsa est quam preparavit Domus filio Dñi mei." King of Holland sale, 1850. Exhibited at Manchester, 1857, and at the Royal Academy in 187-, by A. J. Beresford Hope. Described in Waagen, Art Treasures, IV, 190.

On panel, $11\frac{1}{2} \times 22$.

Jansen, Cornelis Van Ceulen (Keulen).

Born at Amsterdam (?) about 1590; died, between 1662 and 1664. First style thoroughly Dutch, afterwards mingled with Flemish influence, through Van Dyck, with whom he painted for eight years at Court of Charles I. Went to England in 1618, reign of James I, and remained until 1648, when he settled at Utrecht.

322. PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

She is seen three-quarters right, the face in front view, her light hair falling in ringlets as far as her shoulders and adorned with a string of pearls. She has pearl earrings, and a double pearl necklace, with a small pendant attached; a wide, stiff, embroidered, close-fitting, linen collar covers her shoulders and is fastened with a black rosette on her breast; her right hand is held before her waist; she has a pearl bracelet, a ring on her thumb, and cuffs corresponding to her collar. Purchased in London in 1883. Bust.

On canvas, 24 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 30 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Oüens, Jurian.

Born at Amsterdam, 1620; died, 1678. He is said to have been a pupil of Rembrandt, and was skilled chiefly in night scenes and in portraits.

323. PORTRAIT OF A LADY.

She is seen to the knees, standing beside a table covered with red tapestry, on which her left hand rests, holding a closed book; she is in nearly front view, and wears a close white linen cap, stiff ruff, and black dress; her left hand, before her body, holds her gloves. Signed J. Oüens f. A., 1650. Purchased in Holland about 1838, by Mr. Brinley, of Philadelphia, from whose family it was acquired in 1883.

On canvas, 37 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 49 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Sargent, John S.

Born in Florence, of American parents, in 1856. Portrait and genre painter; pupil of Carolus-Duran. Has lived and painted many years in Europe. Honorable mention, Salon, 1879; medal, second class, 1881. Medal of Honor, Exposition Universelle, Paris, 1889; Legion of Honor, 1889; Officer of the same, 1897. 326. OLIVARES.

Three-quarters left, wearing a golilla or stiff linen collar, and a black dress, over which is a cloak partly concealing the green cross of Alcantara on his breast. From the gallery of the Prince of Peace. Brought from Spain in 1813. Sold by Mr. Buchanan to the Marquis of Lansdowne. On canvas, 20 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 26 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Velazquez, Diego Rodriguez de Silva y.

Born at Seville, 1599; died at Madrid, 1660. Both his parents were of noble blood—his father's name being Silva, his mother's Velazquez. His talent for drawing quickly showed itself. He studied first with Herrera el Viejo, a painter of Seville, his second master being Pacheco, whose daughter he married in 1618, and whose house, says one of the Spanish historians, was "the golden prison of painting"; and it was here that Velazquez met Cervantes and obtained his first introduction to the brilliant circle in which he himself was to shine. In Pacheco's company he went, in 1622, to Madrid, returning one year later at the request of Olivares, who persuaded the King to sit to Velazquez for his portrait. The portrait was a complete success, and the painter stepped at once into fame and favor. From the time of this first portrait of Philip IV onward, the life of Velazquez was one long triumph. He was made in succession Painter to the King, Keeper of the Wardrobe, Usher of the Royal Chamber, and Chamberlain; and offices were also found for his friends and relations. When Charles I, then Prince of Wales, visited Madrid, in 1623, Velazquez painted his portrait. The Duke of Buckingham was also his friend, and Velazquez saw something too of Rubens, when the latter came on his diplomatic mission to Madrid. In 1629 he travelled with recommendations from the King, and wherever he went—Venice, Ferrara, Rome, Naples—he was received with all the honors accorded to princes. His second visit to Italy was in 1649. At Rome he painted the portrait of the Pope (Innocent X), which made so great a mark that it was carried in triumphal procession, like Cimabue's picture of old. His royal master, however, became impatient for his return, and he hurried back to Madrid in 1651. On his return he was given fresh honors and offices—especially that of Quarter Master, whose duty it was to superintend the personal lodgment of the King during excursions. It was the duties of this office which were the immediate cause of his death. He accompanied the King to the conference at the "Island of Pheasants," which led to the marriage of Louis XIV with the Infanta Maria Teresa. There is a picture of him at Versailles by the French artist Lebrun, which was painted on this occasion. The portrait, sombre and cadaverous-looking, was, no doubt, true to life; and when Velazquez returned to Madrid it was found that his exertions in arranging the royal journey had sown the seeds of a fever, from which, after a week's illness, he died. Seven days later his wife died of grief, and was buried at his side.

GALLERY 6.

327. BALTASAR CARLOS.

Eldest son of Philip IV. A boy ten years of age, turned three-quarters to the left, head uncovered, hair dressed smooth and falling on his golilla, or wide stiff linen collar; his black dress is richly embroidered with silver, and a scarf crosses his breast. Photographed by Caldesi in Art Treasures of the Manchester Exhibition. From Colonel Hugh Baillie sale, 1868. Charles Sackville Bale sale, 1881. Purchased in London in 1883. It was probably in the sale of the Conde de Altamira, London, 1827. Exhibited at Manchester in 1857.

On canvas, $15\frac{3}{4} \times 20\frac{3}{4}$.

Hals, Frans, attributed to. See No. 11.

328. PORTRAITS OF TWO GENTLEMEN.

They are about 40 years of age, and are seen at half length, standing, with bare heads and long, flowing hair; they are similarly dressed, having linen collars, with embroidered edges and tied with a cord, the tassels falling over their black habits; black mantles cover their shoulders; the one on the left is turned to the right, his head slightly to the left; the other holds gloves in his right hand, the left making a slight gesture; both hands are before his breast. Formerly in the Gsells collection.

On canvas, $35\frac{1}{4} \times 42\frac{1}{2}$.

Metsu, Gabriel.

Born at Leyden, 1630; died at Amsterdam, 1667. The gentlemanly portrait of this artist, now in Her Majesty's collection, represents him to have been a man of a naturally delicate frame and of a sensitive mind; he unquestionably formed his style from the study of works by such distinguished men as Gerard Dou, Frans Van Mieris, Terburg, and Jan Steen, who were all superior to him in invention and the delineation of character, but Metsu obtained a grace of expression and an elegance in demeanor, which left him without a rival in the old Dutch School. On canvas, 20 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 26 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Bonington, Richard Parkes.

Born, 1801; died at London, 1828. His grandfather, and afterwards his father, was governor at the gaol of Northampton, but the father, having been displaced for irregularities, set up as a portrait painter. At the age of fifteen, Richard was a student at the Louvre, and received lessons from Baron Gros. In 1822 he went to Italy. Returning to Paris, he became a victim to consumption, from which he died in London in his twenty-seventh year.

331. SEA COAST.

In the foreground is a pool, on the borders of which are two groups of peasants; among them two men in long cloaks, facing the spectator and conversing. In the distance the sea is seen extending across the picture, with fishing boats under sail. Exhibited at the International Exhibition at London in 1862. Purchased from M. Sedelmeyer in 1888.

On canvas, 23 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 16.

Teniers, David (the Younger). See No. 1.

332. LANDSCAPE.

Copy after Bassano, Da Ponte. In the foreground is a flock of sheep with a goat; on the left, a man resting with his dog; on the right a boy in red dress with three lambs; a cottage in the middle distance. Engraved by Q. Boel, in Teniers Gallery. Duke of Marlborough sale, 1886.

On panel, 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ x 6 $\frac{1}{4}$.

333. THE DEPOSITION FROM THE CROSS.

Composition of six figures. The body of our Saviour extended on a shroud or winding-sheet, held at the end by Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea, occupies the foreground. In the centre the fainting Virgin is upheld by St. John, whilst on the left (of the spectator) Mary Magdalene is seen advancing towards them.

From the shape and dimensions of this small panel picture there can be little doubt that it was originally painted as one of a series of "predella" subjects, doubtless three in number, placed beneath a single panel or altar picture of much larger size.

It is interesting and suggestive to note that in this arrangement Van Eyck followed the Italian and Spanish (not the usual Flemish) disposition in regard to altar pieces. Small "predella" pictures of the Early Italian School are of constant occurrence in collections, but this example is an almost unique instance of an early Flemish predella panel. It is to be inferred from this departure from the custom of his country on the part of the great Flemish master, that the complete work of which the predella formed part was executed for Italy or Spain. Such a work in the main actually exists in the celebrated altar piece of Van Eyck, known as the "Triumph of the Christian Church," now in the Madrid Gallery. From the similarity, indeed, in style and technique, which exists between that picture and the present panel, there is little if any doubt that they were both originally parts of the same work.*

In the writer's opinion the picture belongs to the earlier rather than the latter part of Jan van Eyck's career; i.e., before 1430.

From the fact that Jan van Eyck is known to have visited Spain and Portugal, on an artistic mission from his sovereign, the Duke of Burgundy, it seems very likely that the work in question was executed for the sovereign of one of those countries. The Madrid picture in any case seems to have been an ancient, probably contemporary, importation into the peninsula.

There is no record of the provenance of the present predella panel other than the fact that it was obtained in 1887 from the collection of the Hamborough family at Steephill Castle, Ventnor, Isle of Wight. The collection was formed circa 1830, a period when the importation of pictures from Spain to England was in full activity, and it is very likely that the picture in question was brought to England from the former country at that time.

* The Madrid picture is the main central panel only. Nothing is known of the other two predella panels which must have originally accompanied the present example.

GALLERY 6.

It may be further noted that the admirable, indeed quite wonderful, state of preservation of the present panel is equally the case with the Madrid picture. Both are astonishing evidences of the perfection of technique in oil painting in the hands of its original author.

Terburg (Terborch), Gerard. See No. 3.

334. PORTRAIT OF A GENTLEMAN.

Standing beside a table which is covered with a red cloth, the right hand is held before his breast, the left resting upon the table, face and figure to the front; his long brown hair falls over a large square linen collar.

Purchased in London in 1888.

On panel, $11\frac{1}{2} \times 13\frac{1}{4}$.

Zurbaran, Francisco de.

Born at Fuente de Cantos, Estremadura, 1598; died at Madrid, 1662. Pupil of Juan de las Roelas, afterward imitated style of Caravaggio. In 1625 he painted a series of scenes from the life of St. Peter for the chapel of S. Pedro, Cathedral of Seville, and about the same time his "Glory of St. Thomas Aquinas," his best work, now in the Seville Museum.

335. ST. MICHAEL, THE ARCHANGEL.

Clad in blue tunic, red mantle, plumed helmet, and girt with a jewelled belt, he is seen in front view, standing on the back of the prostrate demon, who is half kneeling on a rock; the serpent twined around his leg. Purchased in 1887, from Mr. Bensusan, of Cadiz.

On canvas, $42\frac{3}{4} \times 63\frac{1}{2}$.

Gainsborough, Thomas, R.A.

Born at Sudbury, in Suffolk, 1727; died at London, 1788. At fourteen years of age he left Sudbury for London, where he studied under Hayman, one of the companions of Hogarth. He remained in London four years, acquiring much skill, and returned to his father's house a confirmed painter. In 1761 he made his début at the Academy, and from this time until near the close of his life he was a regular contributor to the Academy Exhibitions. The combined grace and elegance of his portraits soon brought him into competition with Sir Joshua Reynolds.

336. LANDSCAPE.

From the collection of the late Sir Francis Bolton.

On canvas, $74\frac{3}{4} \times 55\frac{1}{2}$.

Prud'hon, Pierre.

Born at Cluny (Saône-et-Loire), 1758; died at Paris, 1823. After studying a short time at Paris, he went, in 1782, to Rome, where he remained seven years. Success being slow after his return, he was obliged to spend several years in work for engravers and bookmakers, but good fortune arrived at last. He was chosen as instructor to the Empress Marie Louise, and about the same time was elected a member of the Institute of France.

337. ASSUMPTION OF THE VIRGIN.

Clad in white robes and blue mantle, with arms outspread and looking up, she is borne upwards on clouds, supported by five angels. Beneath are St. John and two other Saints.

This is an original sketch for the picture in the Louvre, with variations. The subject was often repeated by the artist, one of the repetitions being in the gallery of Sir Richard Wallace, London; another belonged to M. Tardieu. The present picture was formerly in the cabinet of W. M. Hunt, the artist.

Signed and dated, 1816.

On canvas, $8\frac{7}{8} \times 17\frac{3}{4}$.

MR. GEORGE A. HEARN.

Nos. 338 to 359, Inclusive, were Presented by him to the Museum.

Inness, George.

Born at Newburg, N. Y., 1825; died, 1894. Pupil of Regis Gignoux. 1868. In Italy, 1871-75. His pictures resemble the works of other artists in nothing. He was erratic, but possessed with a deep love and devotion to nature which bound him to the reproduction of the ideal image which had taken possession of his mind, and from which there was no escape until he had thrown it from himself upon the canvas. In middle life, he read largely from Swedenborg, and became a disciple of that faith, which, as he declared, "opened to him a new world." It was at this time that he painted "Peace and Plenty," "The New Jerusalem," and many other important works. The ideal and poetic sentiment was ever uppermost in his mind, and no creation of his was without the stamp of his remarkable individuality. In his later works he attained an excellence which placed him in the front rank of the best landscape painters of the world. Member of the National Academy of Design.

Stark, James.

Born at Norwich, 1794; died at London, 1859. He was for three years a pupil of "Old Crome," and then went to London and exhibited his first picture at the Royal Academy in 1817. Returned to Norwich, and took a prominent part in the exhibitions there. Contributed to the Royal Academy and British Institutions, where in 1818 he won a premium of £50. In 1821 he removed to Yarmouth, but soon returned to Norwich, and in 1827 he published there his "Scenery of the Rivers of Norfolk." He removed to London, and in 1839 to Windsor. In 1849 he returned to London. His masterpiece, "The Valley of the Yare," is in the National Gallery.

341. WILLOWS BY THE WATER COURSES.

On canvas, 23 x 17½.

Wilson, Richard, R. A.

Born at Pinegas, Montgomeryshire, 1713; died at Llanberris, Carnarvonshire, 1782. An eminent English landscape painter. He early manifested a taste for drawing, and gave such promise that his relative, Sir George Wynne, took him to London, and placed him under an obscure portrait painter, Thomas Wright, where he made rapid progress. In 1748 he painted a large picture of the Prince of Wales, and his brother the Duke of York. In 1749 he went to Italy. While stopping at Venice, he paid a visit to Zuccarelli, who happened to be from home, and Wilson, to pass the time, made a sketch in oils, of the view from the painter's window. Zuccarelli thought so highly of this sketch that he recommended Wilson to relinquish portrait and take to landscape painting. A similar experience with Vernet, in Rome, caused Wilson to devote himself to landscape painting.

342. THE STORM.

On canvas, 52¾ x 41.

Pine, Robert Edge.

Born at London, about 1742; died at Philadelphia, 1790. He was the son of Mr. John Pine, the engraver, and was established in London as early as 1761-62. For his picture "The Surrender of Calais," 1760, he received the first prize of one hundred guineas from the Society for the Encouragement of Art. In 1762 he obtained the first prize for "Canute on the Sea Shore, Reproving His Courtiers for Flattery." In 1772 he went to Bath, remaining until 1779, when he returned to London. 1784 he came to America, settling in Philadelphia with the avowed object of painting the distinguished persons and events of our Revolution, but met with so little encouragement that he devoted his time to portrait painting. His first portrait was that of the Hon. Francis Hopkinson, and bears the date of 1785. Washington, in a note dated Mount Vernon, 16th of May, 1785, to the Hon. Francis Hopkinson, consents to give sittings to Pine for a portrait, to be introduced with other people of distinction in a large historical picture, contemplated by the artist. But his ideal was never realized, as he died, 1788, without having made much progress with his collection of material for his grand historical picture. He was small of stature, and morbidly irritable. After his death his wife and children opened a school, but soon returned to England.

343. PORTRAIT OF MRS. REID, IN THE CHARACTER OF A SULTANA.

On canvas, 27 x 34¾.

Harlow, George Henry.

Born at London, 1787; died there, 1819. Portrait painter. Pupil of De Cort, Drummond, and Sir Thomas Lawrence; first exhibited at Royal Academy in 1805. In 1818 he visited Rome; was introduced to the Pope by Canova, and through him made a member of the Academy of St. Luke. Best known work, "Trial of Queen Catherine," with Kemble portraits.

344. PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST.

On canvas, 24 x 29.

Thornhill, Sir James.

Born at Melcombe Regis, in 1676; died at Thornhill, near Weymouth, May 13, 1734. Pupil in London of Thomas Highmore; was patronized by Queen Anne, who made him her Sergeant painter. He decorated eight compartments of the Cupola of St. Paul's, the great hall at Blenheim, the ceiling and walls of the hall at Greenwich Hospital, and a salon and hall at Moor Park, Herts. He was knighted by George I, the first native painter, it is said, to receive that distinction. In 1724 he endeavored to found a Royal Academy of Art, and failing, opened a drawing academy in his own house.

345. PORTRAIT OF MRS. BENSON.

On canvas, 24¼ x 29¼.

Callcott, Sir Augustus Wall, R. A.

Born at Kensington, 1779; died there, 1844. A pupil of Hoppner. He at first practiced portrait painting, but later devoted himself to landscapes. He has been called the English Claude. In 1837 he exhibited a picture of "Raphael and the Fornarina," which was quite out of his usual style. "Milton and His Daughters" followed in 1840. The Queen conferred knighthood upon him in 1837, and in 1844 he was appointed Conservator of the Royal Pictures.

Raeburn, Sir Henry.

Born at Stockbridge, near Edinburgh, March 4, 1756; died near there, July 8, 1823. Apprenticed to a goldsmith in Edinburgh; tried miniature, then portrait painting. A fortunate marriage enabled him to visit (1778) London and Italy. On his return, in 1780, he set up as a portrait painter in Edinburgh. He soon won high rank in his art; was elected, in 1812, President of the Society of Artists in Scotland, and in 1822 was knighted, and the next year was appointed His Majesty's limner for Scotland. Nine of his portraits are in the National Gallery, Edinburgh, and two in the Lenox Library.

On canvas, $24\frac{1}{2} \times 29\frac{1}{2}$.

Kneller, Sir Godfrey, Bart.

Born at Lübeck, August 8, 1646; died at Twickenham, November 7, 1723. Dutch School. Portrait painter; reported to have studied under Rembrandt and Ferdinand Bol, at Amsterdam, and in Rome (1672-74) under Carlo Maratti. Afterwards went to Venice, where he was well received by the leading families, whose portraits he painted. He was induced to go to England in 1674, and received such a flattering reception from Charles II that he determined to remain there. After the death of Sir Peter Lely he was made Court painter. He received equal favor from James II, William III, who knighted him (1692), Queen Anne, and George I, who made him a baronet (1715).

On canvas, 39 x 49.

Morland, George.

Born at London, 1763; died there, 1804. Was the son of Henry Robert Morland, a portrait painter in crayons, and an engraver in mezzotint. He married the sister of James Ward, R. A., who was afterwards united to Maria Morland, the painter's sister. Morland exhibited altogether, at the Royal Academy, between 1779 and 1804, thirty-six pictures. The first is called in the catalogue "A Drawing with a poker." The last, in 1804, is termed, "A Landscape with Hounds in full Chase." "The Inside of a Stable," exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1791, was purchased from the exhibition by the Rev. Sir Henry Bate Dudley, Bart., and was presented to the National Gallery by his nephew, Mr. Thomas Birch Wolfe, in 1877.

354. MIDDAY MEAL.

Signed and dated, 1795.

On canvas, 35 x 27½.

Cotes, Francis.

Born at London, 1726; died, 1770. He was an eminent portrait painter in oil and in crayons, but excelled in the latter, which are said to be superior to those of Rosalba in invention and vivacity. The draperies in his oil portraits were usually painted by Mr. Toms.

355. PORTRAIT OF LADY HARDWICKE.

On canvas, 38¾ x 49.

Cotman, John Sell.

Born at Norwich, June 11, 1782; died at London, July 28, 1842. Landscape and marine painter. Drawing master of King's College School, 1834. His water colors were considered more successful than his oils.

Ostade, Isaac van.

Born at Haarlem, 1621; died there, 1649. Brother and pupil of Adrian. He adopted a little different class of subjects, and represented travelers halting at inns, village scenes with animated figures, etc., and imitated Adrian in many ways. His pictures are eagerly sought by collectors. His best works were executed from 1644 to 1649.

358. WINTER IN HOLLAND.

On canvas, 60 x 40.

Hooch (Hooghe), Pieter de.

Born at Rotterdam, about 1632; died at Haarlem (?), 1681 (?). Genre painter. Formed himself under the influence of Karel Fabritius and Rembrandt. Worked at Delft, where he entered the Guild in 1655, perhaps also at Haarlem.

One of the most original artists of the Dutch School. He painted court-yard scenes and interiors with figures; in the latter he usually represented two rooms, one of which was flooded with sunlight; in these effects he is unequalled.

359. DUTCH INTERIOR.

On panel, 26 x 21.

Willaerts, Adam.

Born at Antwerp, 1577; died at Utrecht before 1662. Dutch School; landscape, marine, and genre painter, especially of coast and harbor scenes, enlivened with numerous characteristic figures; also burning ships, houses and village markets and festive scenes. Mentioned as Member of the Guild at Utrecht in 1611, among the Managers in 1620-37, as still living in 1649, as dead in 1662.

364. LANDSCAPE WITH CATTLE.

Described in the Supplement to Smith's Catalogue Raisonné, page 665, as follows:

"A woman milking. A landscape composed on the left of a hilly country, adorned with a few light trees, and bounded in the opposite side by a stream, on the margin of which lies an old eel basket among bulrushes and other aquatic weeds; a stork and some ducks are here seen in their element. Three cows are in the meadow, one of which a woman in a red dress is milking; and another is lying down. A dog is crouched near a brass can on the foreground. At some distance off are four cows slaking their thirst in the stream."

Lawrence, Sir Thomas, P. R. A.

Born at Bristol, 1769. Died at London, 1830. He early distinguished himself for his ability in drawing. His father was landlord of the Black Bear Inn, Devizes, and the first efforts of the young painter which attracted notice were some portraits in chalk of his father's customers. At the early age of ten years he set up as a portrait painter in crayons, at Oxford; but he soon afterwards ventured to take a house at Bath, where he immediately met with much employment and extraordinary success. In his seventeenth year he commenced oil painting; in 1787, twelve months afterwards, he settled in London, and entered himself as a student in the Royal Academy. His success in London was as great as it had been in the Provinces. In 1791, though under the age required by the laws (twenty-four), he was elected an associate of the Academy, and after the death of Sir Joshua Reynolds, in the following year, he succeeded him as painter to the King. He painted at this time, in his twenty-third year, the portraits of the King and Queen, which were presented by Lord Macartney to the Emperor of China. In 1794, he was elected a Royal Academician; he was knighted by the Prince Regent in 1815; and at the death of Benjamin West, in 1820, he was unanimously elected president of the Academy. From the time of his election as a member of the Academy, to his death, Sir Thomas's career as a portrait painter was unrivaled: he contributed, from 1787 to 1830, inclusive, 311 pictures to the exhibitions of the Royal Academy. He died in London, at his house in Russell Square, January 7, 1830. He was never married. Shortly after his death, a selection of ninety-one of his works was exhibited at the British Institution. He was a member of St. Luke at Rome, and of many other foreign academies; and in 1825 he was created a Chevalier of the "Légion d'Honneur."

Zoffany, Johann, R. A.

Born at Ratisbon about 1733; died at London, 1810. Real name Zauffely. Portrait painter; pupil in Ratisbon of Speer; went to Rome, where he remained twelve years. Went to England 1758, where he attracted the notice of Lord Bute by a portrait of Garrick, and soon acquired reputation; he was sent to Italy by the King in 1775, and there painted his famous picture, "The Tribune of Florence," and in 1778, for the Empress Maria Theresa, the "Imperial Family of Tuscany," for which picture he was made a baron. After his return to England, he went to India, in 1783, and amassed a great fortune. Member of London, Bologna, Florence, and Panama Academies.

Mytens, Daniel.

Born at The Hague about 1590; died after 1658. He entered the Guild of The Hague in 1610, and in 1618 went to England and established himself at the Court of James I, and was appointed Court painter to Charles I in 1625. On the arrival of Vandyck he wished to retire from the Court, but was persuaded by the King, and by Vandyck himself, to remain. Said to have returned to The Hague about 1630. The portrait shown here must have been painted during the year prior to the return of Mytens to Holland. His picture of Charles I with Henrietta Maria and Child is in Buckingham Palace; Charles I and Henrietta Maria, Earl of Dunmore's Collection; Charles I and Henrietta Maria (1637), Dresden Gallery; Charles I as Prince of Wales (1624), Copenhagen Gallery; Charles I (1627), Turin Gallery.

Claude Lorrain (real name Claude Gellée).

Born at Champagne on the Moselle, 1600; died at Rome. 1682. Landscape painter; pupil in drawing of his elder brother Jean, wood engraver at Freiburg in Breisgau. Taken to Rome in 1613 by a relative, he went thence to Naples, where he spent two years as pupil of Godfrey Wals. From 1619 to April, 1625, he lived at Rome, working as apprentice and valet to Agostino Tassi, after which he returned to Lorraine by Venice and the Tyrol. At Nancy he found employment in decorating the Chapelle des Carmes, for Duke Charles III, with figures and architectural ornaments, until the middle of the year 1627, when he returned to Rome to remain for the rest of his life. Here he became intimate with Sandarri, Peter de Laar, and Poussin, and spent his time in making studies in the Campagna, at Tivoli, Frascati, and Subiaco. By 1634 Claude had become a celebrity at Rome. The "Liber Veritatis," a collection of 200 drawings, owned by the Duke of Devonshire, was begun about 1634, and finished in 1675. In the height of his fame the painter was patronized at Rome by the King of Spain and the Elector of Bavaria, Prince Doria, the Duke de Béthune and de Créquy, and many other distinguished persons. From the Church of the Trinità di Monte, where he was buried, and where his monument was destroyed by the French in 1798, his remains were removed in 1840 to the Church of S. Luigi in Francesi at the suggestion of M. Thiers.

THE WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT COLLECTION OF
MODERN PAINTINGS
LOANED BY
MR. GEORGE W. VANDERBILT

The Catalogue of this loan is a reprint from that of Mr. William H. Vanderbilt, published in 1886, with a prefatory note by Mr. S. P. Avery.

NOTE.

Mr. William H. Vanderbilt was born in the year 1821. In 1854 he accompanied his father, Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, and other members of his family, on his steamship the "White Star," during the famous trip to notable parts of Europe. It was the desire to visit Rome, but on account of the cholera then raging there they could only land at Civito Vecchio, where Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt purchased his first painting. Later on, in the early '60's, he began to purchase and commission pictures from a number of our native artists. This experience did much to interest him in collecting works of art. His first purchases were distributed throughout his residence on Fifth Avenue, southeast corner of Fortieth Street. During 1868 and succeeding years he began to purchase works by foreign artists. On the death of his father in 1877 his increasing means enabled Mr. Vanderbilt to purchase examples of the celebrated living and recently deceased painters, which at that time had not become common in this country. Frequently going to Europe, he visited the national and private galleries, attended notable public sales, conferred with reliable experts, made extensive purchases, and gave commissions to several prominent artists of the time.

In course of events and with many art accumulations Mr. Vanderbilt found that he required more extensive premises. He then built his final residence at 640 Fifth Avenue, with adjoining picture galleries, to which he removed in 1881, and where he continually added to his collection up to the time of his death in 1885. Since then no paintings have been added, neither have any of them ever been exhibited outside the residence, where for several years it has not been convenient to admit visitors. In consideration of the many applications to see the paintings, Mr. George Vanderbilt, having planned to be absent from the city for the most of the coming year, has in the most generous manner loaned this portion of his father's collection to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, where it can be freely enjoyed by the public until May, 1903.

GÉRÔME (J. L.).

Louis XIV. and the Grand Condé.

54 x 37

Painted to order, 1878.

(Extract of Letter from the Artist.)

"In order to deliver your picture of the 'Reception of the Prince of Condé by Louis XIV.,' I have worked upon it without intermission to reach the desired end, and I hope that I have succeeded. I hope also that you will be satisfied, for I have done my best to arrive at this result. A few lines about the subject will make you understand it in its details. The reception takes place on the grand staircase at Versailles. This staircase no longer exists. It was destroyed under Louis XV., but there remains an engraving of it at that time, very well executed, which has enabled me to reconstruct it with truth. In the year 1674 Condé had returned to Court, where he was received in triumph. The King came forward to meet him on the grand staircase, which was not his usual habit. The Prince was going up slowly, on account of the gout, which made him almost helpless. As soon as he saw the monarch, 'Sire,' said he, 'I beg Your Majesty's pardon to make you wait so long.' 'My cousin,' answered the King, 'do not hurry. When one is so loaded with laurels as you are, it is difficult to walk quickly.' Louis XIV. pressed him in his arms, and embraced him repeatedly. By the side of Louis XIV. stands his son, the Duke of Burgundy, whom they called the Great Dauphin, at that time thirteen years old. He died while young, without having reigned, and was the father of Louis XV. Behind him is his preceptor Bossuet, Bishop of Meaux. On the right and on the left are members of the Court."

DÉTAILLE (ÉDOUARD).

Ambulance Corps.

46 x 32

Painted to order, 1878.

(Extract of a Letter from the Artist.)

"The title of my picture is 'The Arrest of an Ambulance, Eastern Part of France, January, 1871.' They are civil Ambulanciers, who have been taken by a Prussian patrol in a village where a battle has taken place. When their papers have been examined and recognized in order by the Prussian general, they will be released and authorized to collect the wounded and assist in the German infirmaries. The spot where the scene is laid is a village in Franche-Comté; they have fought there; the Germans occupy it. The foot-soldiers who surround the ambulances are Prussian Chasseurs (Rheinisches Jagers, Battalion No. 8).

GALLERY 8.

The Prussian general is accompanied by an officer of the Hussars (Leibhusaren, Regiment No. 2), and by an officer of the staff; his cap and cloth-facing of amaranth. The two other officers are: the one in blue tunic and yellow collar, an officer of the Dragoons; the other, an officer of the Cuirassiers (Brandenburgisches Cuirassiers, Regiment No. 6, Kaiser Nicholas I. von Russland). The dead body in the foreground is that of a Bavarian foot-soldier. Those are also Bavarians who are at the end of the street, and at the entrance of the house under the façade, and pierced by bullets. Here are very minute explanations, but I thought that Mr. Vanderbilt would be pleased to have all possible details about his picture. I hope that he may be satisfied with it, and that it will receive many compliments."

This represents a Gallery of Antique Paintings. Several visitors are making good use of the catalogues and references which they have found in the boxes on the tables. On the easel is a Monochrome by "Apelles"; above which appears part of a large picture, taken from the great Mosaic in the Naples Museum, which is probably a copy of the painting "The Battle of Issus," by Philoxenos of Eretria. The picture over the doorway might be attributed to Marcus Ludius, the inventor of that most charming and well-known architectural decoration in which Pompeii abounds. Through the doorway is seen another work, taken from a Mosaic in the Naples Museum, representing "Strength Captivated by Love." The life-size figure is, by some archaeologists, believed to be the "Medea" by Timomachos of Byzantium, which picture Julius Cæsar bought from the artist for 40 talents (£8,000) for his collection in the gardens on the Tiber, and left by will to the Roman people. Next to this, "The Sacrifice of Iphigenia," by Timanthes, is a picture much praised by ancient writers; to the right appears a foreshortened Lion, which there is reason to believe is the work of Pausias, who is said to have been the first to paint objects in foreshortening, and never to have been surpassed in that branch of art. The picture above it represents "A Theatrical Rehearsal," taken from a Mosaic in the Naples Museum.

This pair of pictures (8 and 12) have been engraved by A. Blanchard of Paris.

Dated 1878. The original of the well known engraving by T. Oldham Barlow.

Lucy, scarcely yet recovered from the bewilderment of her terror and the faintness of her swoon, clings with all her light weight to the stranger's arm, while yet she seems to be urging him onward. There is a look of entreaty, blended with trust and helplessness, in the beseeching blue eyes and in the wistful face. The plaid, which she wears in the graceful old Scottish fashion, folded mantillawise over her head and shoulders, still wet with the water he has used to restore her to consciousness, clings closely round the fair face and neck and slender figure. Her small gloved hands are clasped clingly round his strong arm. He, with knit brow and dark eyes fixed in a far-off look—it may be that he now first sees the enemy of his house, the author of his father's ruin and death, the usurper of his birthright; or that he already reads, as in a vision, the mysterious interweaving of his fate with that of the innocent daughter of his and his house's enemy, who clings to his arm, with dreamy eyes, that seem, like his own, to see far into the future.

NICOL (ERSKINE).

Paying the Rent.

64 x 46

Dated 1866. Exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1866, and Universal Exhibition, Paris, 1867. From the collection of the late Mr. F. O. Day, St. Louis.

(Extract of Letter from the Artist.)

"The subject is a representation of what is usually to be seen in the business-room of an 'agent,' where, as our Scottish Burns expresses it, 'Puir tenant bodies, scant o' cash,' drop in one after the other to pay rents and arrears; often with great difficulty to themselves, and sometimes not without unwillingness, even when they can, from a failing not uncommon in frail human nature, viz.: a distaste to part with the cash. The agent, accustomed to the work, and used to the many complaints of 'high rents, hard times, failure of crops,' etc., takes it all as a philosopher, and quietly listens, chats, and nibs his pen, having but one point in view—getting the cash. The particular incident illustrates what is not uncommon—a difficulty in arranging contra-accounts, and for work 'done for his Honor, and for which his Honor said himself was to be deducted from the rint.' The Lady, who is sometimes the better man of the two, is active and looking after their interests, knowing that a mistake might be made; while the clerk, likely to be more sharp than polite, feels that in his, for the day, imposing and responsible position, he is called upon to look closely into such charges—if a mistake exists, it may be in their favor—and, in all probability, will in the end have to refer the matter to his superior. The other figures are all accessories of the same story: The man coming in warm, rubbing his head with his kerchief, chatting to the old man of the weather, and the hard run he has had to be in time before his Honor got busy, as he had to go look after some heifers in the field beyant Patsy Conroy's after he had done his business; another stooping to pick up some papers he has dropped out of his hat; while the agent's 'own man' is seen coming in at the door with some books which will be required in the course of the day. This is something like what I intended. After the warm reception the picture has met with in Paris, I think I may venture to hope it will still add to my reputation."

Nothing shall be neglected in the finishing of it, as I wish with all my heart to give you satisfaction. . . . The subject of the painting is 'The Portrait.' A young lady of noble birth is having her portrait painted. She is sitting on a stairway covered with rich tapestries. An attendant amuses her with some music. A young man near her is held by her conversation and the animation of her face. In the foreground is the artist with his easel and canvas. While he works a group of lords contemplate the picture. At the left a page prepares some refreshments. The costumes are of Holland, early in the seventeenth century."

"The Salon of 1859 contained five compositions; one was a chef d'œuvre, the Gorges d'Apremont, in the evening when the sun sets behind the mountains of Rochefort. It is the hour when the cool air touches the earth and strikes the trees, prognosticating the arrival of night. The circle is vast, the rocks which tower above it have a dry and primitive look, making a fitting place for a nocturnal visit of Macbethian witches. Nothing is exaggerated or too nervous in this picture, which is painted with a light touch, perfectly representing great calm and serenity of the atmosphere."—Alfred Sensier's "Life of Rousseau," 1872.

"I have received with great pleasure your obliging letter. No one can be more sensible than I to the expressions of sympathy which it contains. You must have already received the picture of 'Pia de Tolomei,' which I have painted for you. I will give you the passage of history which inspired my work.* Pia, of the noble family of the Tolomei, of Siena, was shut up in a castle of the Maremma, by her husband, Nello della Pietra, who accused her of infidelity. The poisoned air of this region killed her. I have, then, imagined her upon the terrace of the castle, strong in her innocence, and defying her evil destiny. Pia has been for many years a favorite subject with Italian painters and poets. Her story is a mysterious one, and her personality has always attracted a noble sympathy. Dante, who places her in his 'Purgatory,' devotes to her only a few lines of the Fifth Canto, but these few lines are a poem in themselves :

GALLERY 8.

' Ah ! when thou hast returned unto the world,
And rested there from thy long journeying.
Do thou remember me, who am the Pia ?
Siena made me ; unmade me, Maremma ;
He knoweth it who has encircled first,
Espousing me, my finger with his gem.'

"Alfieri has written a fine tragedy, and many poets have sung the beauty and the sad fate of Pia de Tolomei. You know my aspirations. I do not need, therefore, to tell you what an attraction this noble and touching figure must have for me. I have exerted myself, therefore, to the utmost to paint the subject as it presents itself to my imagination. My artist friends, and others in whom I place great confidence, have praised the picture very highly ; and, for my own part, I am well pleased that this picture is to go to you, for I consider it not only one of my very best works, but also one of the most affecting that I have painted."

MILLET (J. F.). The Water Carrier.

31 x 39

From the Hartmann Collection, Paris, 1881.

In a letter addressed to his friend Thoré in 1860, Millet refers to this picture as follows: "In the woman coming from drawing water, I did not try to portray a servant, but a wife who had just drawn water for her household needs—the water with which she makes her husband's soup—and that she should appear to be carrying neither more nor less than the weight of the full pails; that through the kind of grimace that is forced on her by the dragging down of the arms and the half-closed eyes, that just allow her to see, one could divine on her visage an air of rustic goodness. I have avoided, as I always do, with a sort of horror, anything that turned towards the sentimental; I wished, on the contrary, to show her accomplishing with simplicity and willingness an act which is, with the other household duties, an everyday part of her life."

MILLET (J. F.). The Sower.

32 x 41

"While patiently studying the action of his reapers, Millet produced a figure which had long occupied his thoughts. We know what a serious affair the sowing is to an agricultural people. Plowing, manuring, and harrowing are done with comparative indifference, at any rate without heroic passion; but when a man puts on the white grain-bag, rolls it around his left arm, fills it with seed, the hope of the coming year, that man exercises a sort of sacred ministry. He says nothing, looks straight before him, measures the furrow, and, with a movement cadenced like the rhythm of a mysterious song, throws the grain which falls to the earth and will soon be covered by the harrow. The rhythmic walk of the sower and his action are superb. The importance of the deed is real, and he feels his responsibility. If he is a good laborer he will know how much seed to throw with every fling of his hand, adjusting the amount sown to the nature of the soil. I have seen sowers who, before they put foot upon the field, would toss a handful of grain into the air in the sign of a cross; then, stepping upon the field, they would pronounce, in a low voice, some indistinct words which sounded like a prayer." "The Sower" was sent to the Salon of 1850, then held at the Palais Royal. It made some noise; the young school talked about it, reproduced it in lithography, and it has remained in the memory of artists as Millet's chef-d'œuvre. Théophile Gautier was touched by it. In the following quotation we see the impression made by this virile work:

GALLERY 8.

" 'The Sower,' by M. J. F. Millet, impresses us as the first pages of 'Mare au Diable' of Georges Sand, which are about labor and rustic toil. The night is coming, spreading its gray wings over the earth; the sower marches with a rhythmic step, flinging the grain in the furrow; he is followed by a cloud of pecking birds; he is covered with dark rags, his head by a curious cap. He is bony, swart, meager, under this livery of poverty, yet it is life which his large hands sheds; he who has nothing pours upon the earth, with a superb gesture, the bread of the future. On the other side of the slope a last ray of the sun shows a pair of oxen at the end of their furrow, strong and gentle companions of man, whose recompense will one day be the slaughter-house. This is the only light of the picture, which is bathed in shadow, and presents to the eye, under a cloudy sky, nothing but newly ploughed earth. Of all the peasants sent to the Salon this year, we much prefer 'The Sower.' There is something great and of the grand style in the figure, with its violent gesture, its proud raggedness, which seems to be painted with the very earth that the sower is planting."—(Sensier's "Life of Millet.")

On a road that crosses one of the vast plains of Hungary, appears in the midst of a cloud of dust a wagon filled with young men and drawn by three spirited horses at full gallop. The enthusiasm of the young volunteers is at its highest pitch; they seem to be exciting each other by their shouts; one of them, standing in the middle of the wagon, is beating a drum; a second is waving his hat in the air; others are smoking or singing; the wagon is hung with various trophies.

CATHARINE LORILLARD WOLFE COLLECTION

CATHARINE LORILLARD WOLFE, DAUGHTER OF JOHN DAVID WOLFE AND DOROTHEA ANN LORILLARD HIS WIFE, WAS BORN IN NEW YORK CITY, MARCH 8TH, 1828.

SHE DIED IN THIS CITY, APRIL 4TH, 1887.

Miss Wolfe was descended from an old Lutheran family in Saxony, whence her great-grandfather, John David Wolfe, came to this country before the year 1729. He died in 1759, leaving four children, of whom the eldest was David. David Wolfe lived till near the end of a long life of eighty-eight years in the old family residence on Fair, now Fulton Street, and this, with other city real estate, has remained in the possession of the family to the present time. In the War of the Revolution, David Wolfe and his brother Christopher served their country with credit. After the war David and his younger brother, John Albert, were partners as hardware merchants in this city, and about 1816 they were succeeded in business by Christopher, son of John Albert, and John David, son of David.

John David Wolfe (born July 24th, 1792), retired from active business in the prime of his life. Thereafter he devoted his large wealth and judicious labors to benevolent purposes, largely in the foundation and encouragement of educational, charitable and religious institutions. He was devoutly attached to the Episcopal Church, was for some time vestryman of Trinity parish; afterward vestryman, and at the time of his death senior warden, of Grace Church. His memory is perpetuated in many noble institutions, not only in his native city, but in various and remote parts of the country. Some of these were foundations laid by himself alone, others by him in association with generous men who were imbued with like spirit. The gifts and noble works of these men have made the fame of the merchant princes of New York an enduring and priceless possession to their successors, their city and the world. Mr. Wolfe's charities were always without ostentation, and his private gifts were undoubtedly larger than those which were known. Churches and church foundations of benevolence and education in all parts of the country received his never failing aid. St. Johnland on Long Island, the Sheltering Arms in this city, the High School at Denver in Colorado, the Diocesan School at Topeka in Kansas, the Theological Seminary in Ohio, these and many other institutions bear witness to his munificent heart and hands. He was warmly attached to the New York Historical Society, in whose important work and collections he was a free contributor of means and an active personal laborer. He was one of the founders of the American Museum of Natural History in this city, and was its first President when he died, May 17th, 1872, in the eightieth year of his age, leaving but one child, Catharine Lorillard, surviving him, who succeeded to the large property.

Miss Wolfe was endowed with a mind of remarkable power, cultivated by education, reading, and extended travel. Her biography cannot be written here. She devoted herself and her large and largely increasing wealth to the widest and most effective charity, governing herself in her gifts by careful examination and calm judgment, where personal investigation could be made, and where that was not possible, displaying her superior ability in the selection of sound and trustworthy advisers, on whom she relied with confidence. The catalogue of her specific charities would be much longer than this catalogue of her collection of paintings. Her catholic disposition in these may be gathered from the names of a few such objects of her larger appropriations, as Union College at Schenectady, St. Luke's Hospital in New York, the noble charities at St. Johnland on Long Island, the American Chapel at Rome in Italy, the Italian Mission in Mulberry Street, New York, the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, Grace Church in New York City, to which she gave the chantry and other buildings, the Wolfe Expedition to Asia, the Home for Incurables at Fordham, the Diocesan House in Lafayette Place, New York—the list must stop abruptly. There is not space to enumerate half of her recorded gifts, in sums varying from twenty to two hundred thousand dollars. But those who should form an estimate of Miss Wolfe's benevolence from the mere magnitude and number of her gifts, would fail to appreciate her inner life and character. She was constant and unflinching in personal charities among those who were suffering. She visited the poor, and her presence always carried with it the atmosphere of purity and kindness in which she lived. She educated young girls ; she had always large numbers of beneficiaries ; she sought out opportunities to relieve the poor and those who were in trouble or sorrow. When she was absent in Europe she did not forget home benevolence. A friend tells of her sending to him in New York, from her boat on the Nile, $25,000 in a check, to be distributed in charities.

Nor did she, while devoting so much of her life to good works, fail in any degree to fulfill the duties of that position in the social world to which she was called by her wealth and her accomplishments. She recognized those duties, and performed them with grace and dignity as the accomplished hostess in her own house, and the always welcome guest in others. Those who knew her best admired and loved her most.

She had from early life cultivated her affection for the fine arts, and before her father's death had purchased several paintings which are in the present catalogue. Her taste was excellent, and her judgment strengthened by study and very thorough acquaintance with the works of old and modern artists. She had, therefore, great enjoyment in gathering around her, in her city residence, examples of masters in the modern schools, a work which was continued steadily from year to year through her life, and in which she was happy in her reliance for advice and assistance on her kinsman John Wolfe, Esq., through whom most of her selections were made. Nevertheless she exercised a completely independent taste, which decided her, after thorough acquaintance with a painting, whether to retain or reject it. The collection which is here catalogued is therefore an absolute record of the educated and refined taste of the lady whose name it bears.

Miss Wolfe had a constant interest in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, to whose collections she had been a large contributor, and of which she was one of the patrons. Her interest in Art History had been exhibited shortly before her death by her gift to the American School at Athens, and by her payment of the expenses of an expedition to Asia, for the purpose of exploration, with reference to future work of excavation among the buried remains of Ancient Art.

By her last will she disposed of more than a million dollars in money and objects of art, for the perpetuation of those works of Christian charity and centres of education of the people to which her father and herself had so wisely and faithfully contributed. Her gifts to the Museum of Art illustrate the judicious consideration which had characterized all her generosity. Taking into consideration, as few have ever done, the fact that in a museum without an endowment, dependent on its members for its current expenses, every new gift entails increased expense on the institution, she not only gave to the museum her collection of paintings, but added an endowment of $200,000, the income to be used for the preservation and increase of the collection.

The following is an extract from the section of her will making these provisions :

" I give and bequeath to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, chartered by the State of New York and located in the City of New York, all articles of the following description which may belong to me at the time of my decease and be then situated or remaining in the City of New York, namely: my entire collection of modern oil paintings, with their frames, and also my water color drawings with their frames, which paintings include the original portrait of my late father, John David Wolfe, by Huntington, and my own portrait by Alexander Cabanel, all which works of art by this section of my will disposed of shall be properly selected, and scheduled by my executors, and shall thereafter and within six months after my decease be delivered by them to said Metropolitan Museum of Art as its own absolute property, and subject to its absolute disposal, but with the desire and hope on my part that the same may be had, held and exhibited by that institution for the enjoyment and recreation of all who may frequent its rooms, and also with a view to the education and cultivation of the public taste for the fine arts. The gift, however, is upon express condition that the trustees and managers of said institution shall provide and set apart exclusively for the said collection a suitable, well-lighted fire-proof apartment, gallery or separate space, where the paintings and water color drawings herein mentioned shall be properly arranged and displayed; and provided also, that said collection shall be designated and continue to be known as the 'Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Collection.' And in order to provide for the better preservation of the said paintings and drawings, and the future increase of said collection, I give and bequeath to my executors the sum of two hundred thousand dollars in money (or in stocks or securities deemed by them to be of that value) upon trust, to be held and kept invested in United States or State stocks or bonds in good credit, or other securities, strictly approved for the investment of trust funds, and to receive the interest or income thereof and apply the net amount of the same as it shall from time to time accrue to the use of the said Metropolitan Museum of Art during the lives of David Wolfe Bishop and Louis L. Lorillard, two of said executors, and the life of the survivor of them to the intent that such income shall be applied from time to time by said institution for such judicious repairs as may be necessary to the said works of art, and any surplus thereof to be expended for the purchase or acquisition of other original modern oil paintings, either by native or foreign artists, but only for works of acknowledged merit and superior excellence, both in subject and execution, in the departments of art known as figure, landscape and genre subjects, and which shall become additions to the original collection hereby bequeathed, and shall continue to be part of the collection designated and known as aforesaid."

391. THE MASSACRE OF THE MAMELUKES.

"The Viceroy of Egypt, wishing to crush at one blow the warlike Mamelukes who were making havoc among his people, on the first day of May, 1811, convened, under a false pretext, their leaders.

"They were to meet in the old Palace of Cairo, and these proud Mamelukes, in gorgeous robes, and golden helmets shining in the sun, rode up the strange, narrow street, cut out of the solid rock, where, in this narrow defile, conscienceless Mehemet had laid his trap. When the brilliant procession arrived at the gate 'El Azale,' the soldiers cried 'Treason!' as they saw each house filled with Albanians, armed with long guns. The Mamelukes, surrounded by impassable walls, fell like ripe corn, under a hail of bullets, a confused mass of men and beasts; the horses, neighing in their fright, bounded through pools of blood over the bodies of the wounded, while the conquerors of a hundred battles, now conquered, shook their clenched fists at the terrible walls. Death passed over them like a whirlwind, not sparing one out of the five hundred horsemen." Signed. Water Color, 25 x 37.

Rousseau, Pierre Étienne Théodore.

Born at Paris, April 15, 1812; died at Barbizon, near Fontainebleau, December 22, 1867. Landscape painter; pupil of Rémond (1826) and of Lethière. Showed himself a true "naturalist" in his first picture (1826), and up to 1848—when his works, after being for thirteen years excluded from the Salon by the Academical Jury, then abolished, were readmitted—fought the battle of naturalism with varying success, and founded the modern French school of landscape painting, of which he was one of the chief glories. Albert Wolfe said of Rousseau: "He occupied the highest place, because he was the most perfect master. The grand aspect of landscape and its tenderness are equally familiar to him. He renders with the same mastery the smile of creation and its terrors; the broad open plain and the mysterious forest; the limpid, sunbright sky or the heaping of the clouds put to flight by storms; the terrible aspect of landscape or those replete with grace. He has understood all, rendered all, with equal genius. The great contemporary painters have each a particular stamp, Corot painting the grace; Millet, the hidden voice; Jules Dupré, the majestic strength. Théodore Rousseau has been by turns as much a poet as Corot, as melancholy as Millet, as awful as Dupré; he is the most complete, for he embraces landscape art absolutely."

Medals: third class, 1834; first class, 1849, 1855; Medal of Honor, 1867; Legion of Honor, 1852.

Leighton, Lord Frederick.

Born at Scarborough in 1830; died at London, January 25, 1896. No painter since the days of Sir Joshua Reynolds has more worthily filled the presidential chair of the Royal Academy. He was passionately fond of drawing when a child, and in 1842 he was taken to Rome, where he studied drawing under Francesco Meli. He next became a student of the Royal Academy of Berlin, thence to Florence Academy, under E. Steinle; thence to Frankfort, Brussels, and the Louvre Life School, Paris; then, until 1853, again under Professor Steinle; and, finally, for three years, in Rome. Sent to the Royal Academy in 1855, "The Procession of Cimabue's Madonna carried through Florence," which created a profound sensation in the art world of London, and was purchased by the Queen; now in Buckingham Palace. After this success he resided four years in Paris, studying part of the time under Ary Scheffer, and sending pictures nearly every year to the Royal Academy. He was elected A.R.A. in 1864, R.A. in 1869, and President in 1878, when he was knighted. Created a baron of the United Kingdom in 1885. Medal, second class, Paris, 1859. Officer of the Legion of Honor, 1878. Corresponding member of the Institute of France; Member of Academies of St. Luke and Florence. Medal of Honor, Antwerp Exposition, 1885. Elevated to the Peerage (Lord Leighton), January 24, 1896. He traveled extensively in Europe, Egypt, and the East. He was a good linguist, a fine sculptor, and musician.

Another Fish.'

(Vide Beale's Voyage.)

A white, phantom-like ship, under full sail, is seen emerging through the misty atmosphere into view, and a large whale, which has just been harpooned, rears its huge head from the sea in the foreground and is spouting water stained with blood; with its tail it has overturned one of the four boats put out for its capture. The picture is luminous and lovely in color, with a variety of hues in both sky and water which are infinitely beautiful. This painting was purchased by Dr. Munro, of Novar, one of Turner's earliest patrons, at the R. A. Exhibition in 1846. Re-sold to Sir Francis Seymour Haden, 1884, from whom it was acquired by the Museum for the Wolfe Gallery in 1896. (It was exhibited at the Royal Academy Exhibition of Masters in 1892.) It has never been engraved. Signed.

Honor, 1879. He began by painting military subjects of the sixteenth century. In 1867, his "Call To Arms" was purchased by Princess Mathilde, and in 1868, his "Sortie of the Army" was purchased by the Museum of Blois. During the Franco-German War, 1870, he served as "franc-tireur" in the Army of Paris. At the conclusion of that war he adopted a different style in Art, painting such subjects as the "Young Woman with the Sword," "Reverie," "The First Arrival." The "Minuet," 1880, was purchased by the Count of Fitzkievich. At that time he painted portraits of the Duchesses d'Uzès, and de la Trémouille, and of many others of the nobility and society of France and England. Many of his more recent and better pictures are in New York and in Pittsburgh. He is especially known for his exquisite little heads of women, in the fashion of the eighteenth century.

417. RELIGIOUS PROCESSION IN BRITTANY.

Purchased in 1873 from the collection of the late Baron Strousberg, Berlin. The Brittany peasantry are almost as wild as their country, excessively quaint in their costume, wearing broad-brimmed hats and flowing hair, and in some districts trunk hose of the sixteenth century. They are usually spare and wiry in their persons, almost unchanged in their manners, customs, and habits, and old legends and superstitions still retain their hold on the popular mind. Of ancient monuments of different ages there is no lack in Brittany, and above all, of Celtic remains; those extraordinary masses of rough unhewn stones are supposed to be in some way connected with the religion of the Druids. Brittany appears to have been the sacred land of the Gauls, the centre of their worship to which the various nations and tribes repaired on pilgrimages at stated times to pay their devotions. Their mysterious influence is not yet by any means effaced from the minds of the lower orders of Brittany. The influence of paganism lingered long in these remote wilds; indeed, the inhabitants of Ouessant are said to have been idolaters until within two hundred years. Hence has arisen a strange jumble of paganism and Romanism. Heathen divinities were replaced by saints, of which the number in Brittany exceeds that of any part of Romish Europe. Almost every church has its strange legend, and every saint his special patronage, and on his fête day a pilgrimage or pardon is celebrated, when indulgence for past sins is obtained. These festivals often are nearly equivalent to the German Kirchweih and the Flemish Kermes. The pardon St. Mathurin held at Lamballe on Whitsunday is much frequented by pilgrims, who dance the old Breton dances. The pardon celebrated four times a year at Rumegol, near Le Faou, is attended with very curious ceremonies. These pardons take place at fixed periods around about certain churches, but often in uncultivated fields, where tents are erected, and where the fête continues for several days, and is attended by thousands of the peasantry of both sexes. The most important of these pardons are those of St. Anne d'Auray, and of St. Anne de Palud, which last is the most picturesque of all, and takes place at the seaside. The one represented in M. Breton's picture is held at Kergoat, near Douarnenez and Quimper.

GALLERY 9.

Dupré, Jules.

Born at Nantes, 1812; died at Paris, 1889. One of the most original and powerful painters of the modern French School. At twelve years of age he was the principal decorator in his father's porcelain factory on the banks of the Oise. "It was in the contemplation of nature, in his isolation amidst her influences, that the mind of the lad was opened to her beauty, and that her mystery was sounded by his thought. In his hours of freedom the boy used to wander over the fields with sketch-book and pencil. No professor interposed himself between this talent in its birth and what it portrayed. What he was ignorant of he asked but of her; what he learned was from her teaching. At eighteen the little china painter had become a young master. At sixty, he was the illustrious, respected veteran of the School of 1830—Delacroix, Rousseau, Diaz, Corot, Barye, Millet, Decamps, and Troyon." Medals: second class, 1833 and 1867. Legion of Honor, 1849; Officer, 1870.

Fortuny, Mariano-José-Maria-Bernado.

Born at Reus, Catalonia, Spain, June 11, 1838; died at Rome, 1874. His parents were poor. Drawing was his absorbing passion. In 1847 he attended a public course in drawing in his native town. At 12 years of age he began the study of painting, and while so engaged he lost both of his parents, which intensified his unfortunate lot. In 1857 he won the Prix de Rome from Spain, and from that time he quickly rose to fame. His career was as brilliant as it was short. In 1867, already celebrated among painters, he married M^{lle} Cécilia de Madrazo, the sister of the celebrated artist Raymundo de Madrazo. Chevalier of the Order of Charles III. Diploma to the Memory of Deceased Artists, Exposition Universelle, 1878.

Bonheur, M^{lle} Marie Rosa.

Born at Bordeaux, March 22, 1822; died, 1899. Pupil of her father, Raymond B. Bonheur. At the age of 4 years commenced to show a passion for drawing. Began by copying in the Louvre; afterwards made studies and sketches near Paris. Her first two pictures exhibited at Bordeaux, 1841, attracted much attention, and were followed by others which established her world-wide fame. First exhibited at the Salon in 1845. Her painting, "Bœufs Rouges du Cantal," won her her first reward, a gold medal of the third class, 1847. During the Franco-Prussian War, her studio and residence at By, adjoining the Forest of Fontainebleau, were respected by special order of the Crown Prince of Prussia. Since 1848 she had been Director of the Paris Free School of Design for Young Girls, which she founded. "Exempt" from Jury of Admission by special decree, July 27, 1853. In 1865, Maximilian and Carlotta sent her the Cross of San Carlos. Elected member of the Academy of Fine Arts of Antwerp, 1867. Medals: 1845, '48, '55, '67 (Exposition Universelle). Legion of Honor, 1865, personally delivered by the Empress Eugénie; Leopold Cross, 1880; Commander's Cross of Royal Order of Isabella the Catholic, 1880. President Carnot, of France, visited her several times in 1893, and prevailed upon her to send some of her work to the Columbian Exhibition. Her exhibit there was the occasion of her being named Officer of the Legion of Honor (1894). Officer of the Most Noble Order of Santo Jacobo, 1894.

GALLERY 10.

Troyon, Constant.

Born at Sèvres, 1810; died in Paris, 1865. Pupil of Riocreux and Poupart, and influenced by Roqueplan to study nature, for which he showed an individual feeling in first exhibited works, 1836. A visit to Holland in 1847 revealed to Troyon his true mission, that of an animal painter. His great technical skill and inexhaustible resources as a colorist, and other rare endowments, enabled him to grapple with all the varying moods and effects of nature, and in this new line of cattle and landscape painter he soon became illustrious. Medals: third class, 1838; second class, 1840; first class, 1846, 1848, 1855; Legion of Honor, 1849. Member of the Amsterdam Academy. Diploma to the Memory of Deceased Artists, Exposition Universelle, 1878.

Born at Arolsen, Westphalia, 1805; died at Munich, 1874. Pupil of Düsseldorf Academy under Cornelius, whom he followed in 1825 to Munich, and continued his studies in the Academy there. Went to Rome in 1839, where he learned to paint. Was called to Berlin in 1847 to decorate the Treppenhaus (Staircase Hall) of the new Museum. Medal, 1855; Legion of Honor, 1835; Officer, 1867; Commander of the Order of Francis Joseph; Grand Commander of the Order of St. Michael; Director of the Munich Academy; Corresponding Member of the Institute of France.

500. CRUSADERS BEFORE JERUSALEM.

The intention of the artist was to express symbolically the idea that Christianity has become the triumphant religion of the universe. In the middle and extreme distance can be seen the city of Jerusalem with its domes and palaces, the crusaders' coveted goal; somewhat removed, some soldiers, a group of eminent knights, ecclesiastics, bishops, and crusade preachers contemplate the city from a hill-top; on another hill to the right can be seen the army of crusaders commanded by Godfrey of Bouillon, who holds uplifted in both hands a crown, symbol of the divine right of the Kings of Jerusalem; near him are Boemond and Tancredi, soldiers who had distinguished themselves in the memorable battle the crusaders fought with the Saracens. The ground is covered with the enemy's dead. On the foreground in the middle is Peter of Amiens on his knees, with eyes turned towards the Holy City, and offering to God prayers of thanksgiving. Behind him a group of penitents are lying on the ground or scourging themselves; above, borne on clouds, is seen the divine apparition of the Redeemer accompanied by the Holy Virgin, and surrounded by the Saints and Martyrs. Godfrey of Bouillon, bearing on his head a crown of thorns, offers the crown of the Holy land to the Saviour, the real King of Jerusalem. Near Peter of Amiens is a group of fervent psalmists of the Christian faith, followed by the knights in magnificent armor. The troubadour of the middle ages, so closely associated with romances of the crusaders, here also finds his place. The beautiful Armida, borne seated on a litter draped with laurel branches, is carried by Moors, while her knight, Rinaldo, leads the way to the city, as, pious and beautiful, she lifts her gaze to the heavenly apparition. Signed.

On canvas, 74 x 61.

Le Févre, Jules.

Born at Tournan, Seine, France, 1834. Pupil of Cogniet. Won the Grand Prix de Rome in 1861 for his "Death of Priam." Medals: 1865, '67, '70; Legion of Honor, 1870; Officer, 1878. Jacque, Charles Émile.

Born at Paris, 1813; died, 1894. Animal and landscape painter, engraver, and etcher. When seventeen years old, he studied with a geographical engraver, but later on enlisted as a soldier and remained seven years in the army. He then resumed his engraving, and worked two years in England as a draughtsman on wood. He may be characterized as a rustic artist. He paints farmyard scenes with vigor, and excels in accurate knowledge of sheep and poultry, of which he is a fancier. By his truthful pictures of pigs he has earned the soubriquet of Le Raphael des Porceaux. Medals: third class, 1861, 1863; Medal, 1864; Legion of Honor, 1867.

Greuze, Jean Baptiste.

Born at Tournus (Saône-et-Loire), 1725; died in Paris, 1805. French School; genre and portrait painter. Pupil in Lyons of Grandon, and in Paris of the Academy, in 1755. His picture of the "Father reading the Bible to his Children" was exhibited and greatly admired in the same year, at the close of which he was taken to Italy by the Abbé Goujenot. After his return he exhibited at the Salons of 1757, 1759, and in 1761 his "Accordée du Village" (Louvre), which excited the greatest enthusiasm. Angry at being received into the Academy (1767) as a genre, and not as a history painter, Greuze retired for a time to Anjou, whence he returned to exhibit pictures in his studio, which attracted all Paris. He amassed a large fortune, but lost it during the Revolution. Neglected by the public, which admired only the new school of David, Greuze passed his last years in misery and regret. His wife, Mlle. Barbuty, whose charming face appears in so many of his pictures, was an extravagant and worthless woman, from whom he was separated long before his death.

589. BARON ALEXANDER VON HUMBOLDT.

Painted from life at the age of 89 years.

In the year 1857, the late Mr. Albert Havemeyer, of this city, being then in Berlin, called on Baron von Humboldt and requested him to sit for his portrait to the eminent artist, Julius Schrader. The Baron was obliged to decline the frequent and urgent solicitations of his many admirers for a similar favor, but having in the United States many personal friends and acquaintances whom he thought would be gratified to see a good portrait of him, cheerfully consented to sit; and taking from his table a number of sketches made of himself, he selected one having in the background Chimborazo, and said, "I will be painted sitting here," designating the spot with Chimborazo in the distance. The artist commenced the picture at once, and at its completion the Baron expressed himself as delighted with it. This was the last portrait, from life, of Humboldt.

LETTER FROM THE ARTIST TO MR. A. T. STEWART.

MY DEAR MR. STEWART: I have delayed writing you because my letter must be a last adieu to a work of many years—an act of final separation. You will comprehend why I wished to do so only at the last moment; as, however great may be my satisfaction to know you are to be its possessor, I can only part with it with pain—a picture which has been for so long a time the life and joy of my studio.

Le voila, that which will be soon in your possession, be good enough to receive as a friend; not as one that pleases at the first contact, and is then soon forgotten, but as one of those who, by intimate acquaintance, is loved more and more. Permit me to believe that when you are looking at this picture—on which I have bestowed all the science and experience I have been able to acquire in my art—your pleasure will constantly grow greater.

GALLERY 12.

I have the conviction—which I do not express without a certain ~~pride~~—that the value of this work will increase with time. What may or can be said of it will pass away, but the picture will remain, to be an honor to both of us; and although it can defend itself, yet, among the thousands of persons who have hastened to see it, many have done it injustice with a certain malevolent appreciation—still I have the right, having painted it with so much sincerity of purpose, to defend and explain it. Strange as this may appear, it must be done; because, however singular may be the fact, some, I understand, have not been pleased to go and see for themselves, but have adopted the unfair judgment of others.

I did not intend to paint a battle—I wanted to paint Napoleon at the zenith of his glory; I wanted to paint the love, the adoration of the soldiers for the great Captain in whom they had faith, and for whom they were ready to die.

I previously had represented, in the picture "1814," the heart-rending end of the Imperial Dream—those men only recently intoxicated with glory, now shown exhausted, and no longer believing in their invincible chief. My palette then did not have colors sad enough for the purpose; but to-day, in "Friedland, 1807," wishing everything to appear brilliant at this triumphant moment, it seemed to me I was unable to find colors sufficiently dazzling. No shade should be upon the Imperial face, to take from him the epic character I wished to give him. The battle, already commenced, was necessary to add to the enthusiasm of the soldiers, and make the subject stand forth, but not to diminish it by saddening details. All such shadows I avoided, and presented nothing but a dismounted cannon, and some growing wheat which would never ripen.

This was enough.

The men and the Emperor are in the presence of each other. The soldiers cry to him that they are his, and the impressive Chief, whose Imperial will directs the masses that move around, salutes his devoted army. He and they plainly comprehend each other, and absolute confidence is expressed in every face.

Such was the idea as it leaped from my brain the first instant when I embodied the picture in thought; and which, in spite of the long time I have taken to put it on canvas, has always remained with me so clear and plain that I have never in any manner modified it.

As to the execution, only a painter (and one of great experience) can say what time, labor and patience have been brought to bear upon this work to produce a single whole out of so many diverse elements. Only he can say how difficult it is, from such varied materials, to put aside all these artifices which so often are used in art to cover defects. The growing wheat is even proof of the difficulties I have encountered in covering it with the dust which hides so many things.

GALLERY 12.

I said to you at the beginning, and again let me repeat it, that I have faith in my work. Time will consolidate and strengthen it more and more, and I am almost certain your enlightened love for art will protect it, in case there should be need.

Now, dear sir, let me close by offering you my portrait. You desire to have one, and I have had the pleasure of painting it for you myself. With it, I trust you will speak of me more intimately, and will always be enabled to recall how much I am,

Your devoted

Harpignies, Henri.

Born at Valenciennes, France, July, 1819. At 27 years of age became pupil of Achard for two years; studied in Italy two years. On his return to France he became one amongst a set of men devoted to the cult of a new kind of beauty, and to the revivication of the elements of pictorial style. After his first visit to Rome in 1850, his manner became stronger, more individual; of later years his pictures are imbued with an increasing poetical feeling. Considered the greatest landscape painter in water colors. He first attracted attention by his "La lisière de bois sur les bords de l'Ailier," in 1861; which made his reputation. Medals: 1866, '68, '69; second class, 1878, Exposition Universelle; Hors Concours, 1889, Exposition Universelle; Legion of Honor, 1875; Officer, 1883. 618. THE DEFENSE OF CHAMPIGNY.

PARIS, May 29, 1897.

MR. HENRY HILTON.

MY DEAR SIR: I have learned with great pleasure that you have become the purchaser of my painting, exhibited this year in our Art Salon, and I am happy that it finds a place in your gallery, which enjoys a very great reputation in France. I know that I shall be "in good company" with you, and it is so much the more gratifying to me, as I consider this last painting the most important work I have ever produced.

The episode which I have chosen gives scope for a great development of subject. It is the moment when the division of General Faron (now inspector of Marne), after having taken Champigny, situated above the Marne, fortified itself in the village and defended, foot by foot, the house and enclosures against the return attack of the Saxony and Würtemberg divisions, in the battle of 2d December, 1870. The château which I have shown is one of those which are found at the fork of the two roads at Chennevières—a place well known to those Parisians who took part in the scenes of the siege of Paris. The officer shown in the centre of the picture is General Faron, who was appointed General of Division on the field of battle. The foot soldiers belong to the 113th Regiment of the Line, who lost a great number in the three days of fight. The Sappers, who are making the embrasures in the wall to allow the sharpshooters to fire under protection, and are barricading the opening with all kinds of material; the artillerists, who are placing the battery guns in position; all likewise were under the orders of General Faron, who at this time commanded the right wing of the French army.

I have endeavored to portray, in the most exact manner possible, the various scenes of which I was a witness, having been myself a soldier in the "Garde Mobile" during the siege of Paris; and in painting this work I have had the advantage of being able to reproduce some souvenirs absolutely personal. I attach, therefore, much importance to this painting, and am specially desirous—outside of the Paris Exhibition—for permission to exhibit it in Germany, where I have been very particularly solicited to show my military works.

I particularly desire to be represented at this international gathering, and

GALLERY 12.

I have selected naturally this my most important work. It is the first time since the war of 1870 that French art has been exhibited in Germany, and the presence of military paintings recalling souvenirs of the late war will add a peculiar piquancy.

I have always been very sensible of the favors shown me in America, and I am happy to be able to testify this to you especially.

Receive, sir, the expression of my distinguished regards, etc.

Scheffer, Ary.

Born at Dordrecht, Feb. 10, 1797; died at Argenteuil, June 15, 1858. History and portrait painter; son of Johann Baptist Scheffer; pupil of Guérin. Sympathizing neither with the classic school represented by his master, nor the romantic led by Géricault and Delacroix, Scheffer took up a class of subjects which showed his sympathy with the cause of freedom, such as the Suliote women, an episode of the Greek war, and the Battle of Morat. Influenced by Ingres, he sought and obtained greater purity of form, and painted subjects from Goethe and Byron. In 1836 he was appointed art instructor to the Orléans family, and directed the studies of the Princess Marie in sculpture. In 1836 he accompanied the Duc d'Orléans and General Baubrand, whose widow he afterwards married, to the siege of Antwerp, and after his return painted several military episodes for Versailles. Between 1835 and 1848 he produced his greatest works, the "Christus Consolator and Judex," the "Francesca and the Mignons." When the Revolution broke out, Scheffer assisted the King and his family in their escape from Paris, and then went to Holland and England for rest. The coup d'état of 1852, which gave Louis Napoleon the throne, was a blow to his hopes which finally disgusted him with politics, from which he withdrew altogether. Five years later, after a last visit to England, he lost his friends Manin and the Duchess d'Orléans, to whom he was much attached. After attending the funeral of the latter, he returned much broken to France, and shortly after died.

655. THUSNELDA AT THE TRIUMPHAL ENTRY OF GERMANICUS INTO ROME.

Painted to order for the late A. T. Stewart, Esq. At the request of Emperor William, was exhibited in Berlin before being sent to this country. The large painting now in the Munich Gallery was painted subsequently to the above.

The following description is by the painter, Piloty:

The Emperor Tiberius, surrounded by his Courtiers (Favorites, Councilors, Lictors, Senators, and Roman Women), has taken his place upon a tribune under a spread canopy, in order that the triumphal procession of Germanicus may pass before him.

Germanicus appears in the background upon a triumphal car, accompanied by his five sons, surrounded by Trophies of Victory, and is greeted by the applause and acclamations of the people, who are to be seen at the Arch of Triumph.

In front of the car, reaching from the middle distance to the foreground of the picture, are the German captives being led in chains. As principal figure in this group and of the picture, walks Thusnelda, in the costume of the Germans, with her son, Tumelicus (a child of three years), accompanied by a nurse and an attendant. Before her is the priest, Libes, coupled (chained) together with warriors, escorted by Roman soldiers. Behind Thusnelda are to be seen her brothers, leaders of the Cherusker, chained together, with bears, etc., etc. The foreground to the left is occupied by the populace of Rome, who mock and insult Thusnelda.

Thusnelda, having been forcibly carried away from her husband,

GALLERY 18.

Arminius, a German Prince, by her father Segestes, was, from reasons which appeared to him advantageous for his own personal interests and the condition of the Germans, betrayed and delivered into the hands of the Romans.

In the picture, Tiberius has selected Segestes to stand before the steps of his throne, and has forced him to witness the shame of his own daughter; he is mocked by the Senators sitting near him, as they point to the prisoners below.

Strabo describes, as an eye-witness, this event; he, as well as Tacitus, although Romans, express plainly their sympathy for the devotion and love of country exhibited by Thusnelda, whose personality will ever be a poetical subject for an artist.

Born in Ohio, 1836; died at New York, 1892. He devoted himself in early life to painting photographs and portraits in Cincinnati. At the age of 21 years he made a journey to New York to visit George Inness, by whom he was received most kindly. The impression made upon Wyant at this meeting was lasting, and the influence of this masterful painter may be traced in many of his most important works. He spent some years at Düsseldorf; subsequently at London; settled at New York after 1864. He was one of the founders of the Water Color Society, and a member of the National Academy of Design.

Hellquist, C. G.

Born at Kungsör, 1851; died in the Bavarian Highlands, Nov. 20, 1890. He was the son of a poor shoemaker at Kungsör, on Lake Malar. In the eleventh year of his age he was sent to Stockholm and apprenticed to a scene painter, Ahlgrenson, and in 1864 entered a class in the Royal Academy, supporting himself by illustrating while pursuing his studies; meanwhile he painted several pictures representing mythological and historical subjects, such as "Asa Thor's Contest with the Giants," "The Finding of Moses," and "The Finding of the Body of Gustavus Adolphus." In 1875, for his painting "Gustavus Vasa Discovers the Treason of the Bishops," he received the Academical prize, the great medal and a traveling stipend extending over five years. He made a journey through Sweden, Norway, and Gothland, on foot, filling his sketch-book with materials for future use. He then visited Paris and the principal cities of Germany, settling down at Munich as the pupil of Wilhelm Diez. Returning to Paris, he painted important works which were exhibited at the Munich International Exhibition of 1879. In all of his historical and genre pictures he adhered to the style and mannerisms illustrated in the example of his work here exhibited.

694. PETER SONNÄVATER AND MASTER KNUT'S OPPROBRIOUS ENTRY INTO STOCKHOLM, IN 1526.

(These two Swedish Bishops had sought refuge after their unsuccessful rebellion in Delame, against Gustavus I, with the Archbishop Olaf, in Tronheim; but the latter treacherously betrayed them to the King's servants, who, dressing them in rags, and putting a crown of straw on Sonnävater's head, and a mitre of birch-bark on Knut's, mounted them on starving horses and brought them through Upsala to Stockholm in a Shrove-tide procession, amidst jeers and insults. They were led to the market-place, and, after drinking to the executioner's health, were broken on the wheel.) Dated, 1870. Presented by Mr. Wm. Osborn, 1880. Signed and dated, 1879.

Bonheur, Mlle. Marie Rosa. See No. 467.

706. THE HORSE FAIR.

Mlle. Rosa Bonheur made her début at the Paris Salon of 1841, to which she sent two small pictures of sheep, goats, and rabbits. She exhibited each following year except 1851-52. In 1853 she exhibited her masterpiece, the now famous "Horse Fair." The subsequent history of this painting is given in the following extract from a letter written to Mr. S. P. Avery by Mr. Ernest Gambart, the original purchaser of the picture, formerly of London, and now retired from business and living at Nice: "I will give you the real story of the 'Horse Fair' now in New York. It was painted in 1852 by Rosa Bonheur, then in her thirtieth year, and exhibited in the next Salon. Though much admired, it did not find a purchaser. It was soon after exhibited at Ghent, meeting again with much appreciation, but was not sold, as art did not flourish at the time. In 1855, the picture was sent by Mlle. Rosa Bonheur to her native town of Bordeaux, and exhibited there. She offered to sell it to the town at the very low price of 12,000 francs ($2,400). While there I asked her if she would sell it to me, and allow me to take it to England and have it engraved. She said: 'I wish my picture to remain in France. I will once more impress on my countrymen my wish to sell it to them for 12,000 francs. If they refuse, you can have it, but if you take it abroad, you must pay me 40,000 francs.' The town failing to make the purchase, I at once accepted these terms, and Rosa Bonheur then placed the picture at my disposal. I tendered her the 40,000 francs, and she said: 'I am much gratified at your giving me such a noble price, but I do not like to feel that I have taken advantage of your liberality. Let us see how we can combine in the matter. You will not be able to have an engraving made from so large a canvas. Suppose I paint you a small one of the same subject, of which I will make you a present.' Of course I accepted the gift, and thus it happened that the large work went traveling over the kingdom on exhibition, while Thomas Landseer was making an engraving from the quarter-size replica.

"After some time, in 1857 (I think), I sold the original picture to Mr. Wm. P. Wright, New York (whose picture gallery and residence were at Weehawken, N. J.), for the sum of 30,000 francs, but as he claimed a share of the profits of its exhibition in New York and other cities, he really paid me only 22,000 francs for it. I offered to repurchase the picture in 1870 for 50,000 francs, but ultimately I understood that Mr. Stewart paid a much larger price for it on the dispersion of Mr. Wright's gallery. The quarter-size replica, from which the engraving was made, I finally sold to Mr. Jacob Bell, who bequeathed it, in 1859, to the nation, and it is now in the National Gallery in London. A second, still smaller, replica was painted a few years later, and was resold some time ago in London for £4,000 ($20,000). There is also a smaller water-color drawing, which was sold to Mr. Bolckow for 2,500 guineas ($12,000), and is now an heirloom belonging to the town of Middleborough. That is the whole history of this grand work. The Stewart canvas is the real and true original, and only large size 'Horse Fair.'

GALLERY 13.

"Once in Mr. Stewart's possession, it never left his gallery until the auction sale of his collection, March 25, 1887, when it was purchased by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt for the sum of $55,500, and presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Hamerton calls Rosa Bonheur 'the most accomplished female painter who ever lived,' and adds: 'She is a pure and generous woman as well, and can hardly be too much admired, whether we regard her as a woman or artist. She is simple in her tastes and habits of life, and many stories are told of her generosity to others.'" Presented by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, 1887.

Justinian I (Flavius Anicius Justinianus), surnamed the Great, a

GRAND HALL.

Byzantine Emperor, born at Tauresium, a village near Sardica (now Sophia), in Bulgaria, in 482 or 483; died, 565. He was the son of a poor barbarian family, but his elevation was promoted by his uncle, Justin I, who, shortly before his death in 527, adopted him as Co-Emperor. The political events of his reign may be summed up in the wars of Belisarius and the eunuch Narses, who obtained successes over the Persians in the East, and the Vandals and Goths in Italy, and in the terrible sedition which broke out at Constantinople in 532. The glory of his reign is the famous digest of Roman law, known generally as the Justinian Code, which was compiled out of the Gregorian, Theodosian, and Hermogenian codes, by the ablest lawyers of the empire, under the genius of the jurisconsult, Tribonian. Their labors consist—I, of the "Statute Law," or Justinian Code, properly so called. II, "The Pandects," a digest of the decisions and opinions of former magistrates and lawyers. These two compilations consisted of matter that lay scattered through more than two thousand volumes, now reduced to fifty. III, "The Institutes," an abridgment in four books, containing the substance of all the laws in elementary form. IV, The laws of modern date, including Justinian's own edicts, collected into one volume and called. "The New Code." These labors, which a Cæsar had not been able to accomplish, were completed by the year 541. Besides this important work of imperial reform, Justinian was a great builder and engineer, and works of public utility were kept constantly in progress in all parts of the empire. He was remarkable for his temperance and chastity, and not less for his great learning and diligent application to business.
